COUNCIL ORDERS
MAP OF TIBER;
ORDAIN STREET

Borough council at its August meeting Monday evening authorized the making of a detailed profile map of the Tiber as a preliminary to future improvements in the channel of the flood-ridden stream; ordained an extension of Hay street to Buford avenue over theological seminary land which is being donated to the town, and authorized the employment of an additional part-time police officer to help curb street noises in Gettysburg at night.

After a number of complaints had been received on bad pavements in the town and instances in which borough notices to lay or repair pavements had been ignored were cited, council decided to study the pavement ordinance for the purpose of working out a more effective method of securing sidewalk repairs after notices are sent.

Voice Objections
The decision to ordain the extension of Hay street through seminary land came without a dissenting vote but only after 45 minutes of discussion in which several councilmen raised the question of whether town money "should be spent for the improvement of a tax-free institution."

It was pointed out that three lots likely will be sold along the east side of the proposed street extension and would become taxable. Then one member asked whether council would be justified in developing and improving a street on which taxes would be available from only one side with the seminary campus bordering the street on the west.

The measure was passed but with the stipulation that objections may be filed to the ordaining of the street up to September 15. A proposal for the ordaining of the street has been before council in one form or another for several years with taxes, drainage and other considerations being involved. The seminary petitioned council Monday evening to pass the ordinance ordaining the street "with no strings attached." Council now will ask a quit-claim deed for the land to be used in the 325-foot street extension.

Patching Streets
Council approved a modified street surfacing and patching program which was cut down when it was learned no county-aid funds would be available this year. Borough Engineer LeRoy A. Winebrenner said East Middle, Fourth and part of Third streets already have been patched, nearly completing that work in the east end of town.

Councilmen authorized the surfacing of Fifth street, West High street, west from the Catholic cemetery and South Howard street from West Middle to West High. The cost was estimated at from $1,360 to $1,460.

Other streets have been dropped from the list to be resurfaced and will receive only patching. Council authorized the purchase of another truckload of oil for the patching work.

Councilman Vernon Corle reported on the results of a survey of the Tiber last month by councilmen and a state engineer. The state official condemned bad bridges at several points from North Washington streets to the railroad bridge south of West Middle street. The Springs avenue-Buford avenue bridge was described as "critical." The opening under the silk mill was described as "unsafe."

Girl To Hospital

Shortly after noon today it was announced that Marlene Dove, still unconscious, was being rushed to the University of Pennsylvania hospital at Philadelphia.

State police here sent a telephone message ahead of the speeding taxi that carried the girl toward Philadelphia and police escorts met the taxi at the edge of York and other towns and cities along the way to make sure that traffic did not hold up the car carrying the unconscious girl. In York all traffic stopped in Market Square as a police car raced ahead of the taxi with its siren screaming.

The trip was begun here at 10:10 o'clock. She was being rushed to a specialist in brain surgery at the University hospital.

Marlene Dove, aged a year and a half, Gettysburg, suffered a cerebral concussion and a possible fracture of the skull Monday evening when she ran against the rear fender of a car passing the home of Mrs. Belle Scott, York Springs R. D., where the child was visiting.

The mishap occurred about 5:25 o'clock a mile and a half north of Heidelsburg on the Harrisburg highway. Earl Prie, colored, 145 Breckenridge street, driver of the car, said he applied his brakes and swerved his car in an effort to avoid the child. The youngster had darted from the Scott yard through a hole in the fence, police said.

A motorist took the child to the hospital where her condition was described today as serious. She remains unconscious.

The mishap was investigated by Pvt. George Ackerson of the Gettysburg detail of the state police.

Reds Strangling
Nazi Defense In
Heart Of Poland

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—A new eruption of Red Army attacks which captured more than 60 communities beyond the enemy's broken Vistula river defenses threatened today to strangle German communications between Krakow and Warsaw in the heart of Poland.

Striking out afresh yesterday from the Vistula bridgehead, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army reached points 36 miles west of the river, Soviet field dispatches said.

"Today's German radio communique suggested that Russian armor which established a 41-mile front on the west bank of the Vistula river 110 miles southeast of Warsaw, struck violently to the northwest, seeking to curl around and encircle Warsaw.

Heavy Fighting
"Northwest of Baranow, the enemy broke into our positions with strong forces," the communique said. "German reserves launched a counterattack at once. Heavy fighting is in progress."

The Germans also reported breaks in their lines north of the Dvina river and north of Bialystok in the Latvia-Estonia trap, where 20 to 25 Nazi divisions were cut off from German land communications by a Russian plunge to the Baltic coast of Riga.

Thrusting beyond newly-occupied Szydlow, the Russians directly menaced Kielce, astride highway and rail arteries 25 miles to the northwest.

Last reports placed Soviet spearheads within 37 miles of Krakow, last big Nazi bastion before German Silesia, now 75 to 90 miles away.

Moscow's guns sounded last night for twin victories—the fall of the oil center of Boryslaw in the Carpathians, and the capture of Sambor, communications hub whose fall gave the Russians a grip on five routes leading into nearby Czechoslovakia.

Capture Oil Wells
Information available in London indicated that through capture of Boryslaw the Russians had regained some 2,600 Galleian oil wells which had been feeding the Nazi war machine. The Germans thus were left only the Ploesti fields in Romania, which have been repeatedly bombed by Allied planes.

Far to the north three powerful Soviet armies began a pincer movement on German East Prussia along a 200-mile front.

With the Red Army fighting virtually on the East Prussian border, hundreds of Stormoviks, Boston, and Soviet medium bombers went into attacks against East Prussian towns, railroads and highways today.

Yuzvitsky commented that "the hour of revenge has come."

Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams County court, presided Monday in Dauphin County court when an argument was heard on the motion to quash indictments against two Harrisburg lawyers charged with conspiracy, embezzlement and fraud by agent of bank.

The attorneys, Wolfe Rosenberg and Robert Rosenberg were accused of having persuaded Val E. Welden, Enola, a former bookkeeper at the Market Street Trust company, Harrisburg, to carry over-drafts in the law firm's account. A total of $3-20,821 was said to be involved.

Thomas D. Caldwell, counsel for the Rosenbergs, attacked the legal sufficiency of the indictments and contended they were defective.

Supplemental briefs will be filed with the court later by both the commonwealth and the defendants.

Two Strong
Surges Make
Foe Cringe

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Berlin radio declared today that Americans had broken into the northern Breton port of St. Malo at one point, and asserted the Nazi garrison is fighting to hold the town.

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 8 (AP) Allied troops advancing in two powerful surges at the wings of a 120-mile front drove today to little more than 100 miles from Paris, and the Germans desperately rushed in forces from southern France.

Canadian troops hammered four miles into the main enemy line below Caen, and Americans on the southern flank struck toward Le Mans, only 100 miles from the French capital. Advance elements already were reported in Le Mans, a road-and-rail hub.

The doughboy drive left behind to the northwest the wreckage of the Germans' abortive but still-writhing counter-attack in the Mortain area.

Erroneous Report

The exact sector where the Allies were little more than 100 miles from Paris was not specified. A report that Allied forces had definitely passed the 100-mile mark circulated late today, but proved erroneous. At the northern end of the Allied front, the Germans' stout Caen hinge, loosened by an unprecedented 1,000-plane bombardment last night, was battered again in daylight by 600 U. S. heavy bombers.

Canadian-British troops stormed over the Orne river in a four-mile advance. They punched through a once-impenetrable anti-tank screen, seizing strongpoint villages by the dozen.

On the Breton peninsula, U. S. troops battled against stubborn resistance for the northern port of St. Malo, fought on the outskirts of Brest, and threw a concentrated attack against Lorient.

Rush Reinforcements

The Germans rushed in reinforcements against the rising Allied threat to Paris. It was the 29th anniversary of their "blackest day" of World War One when the German high command decided the war was lost.

Their counterattack in the center of the Allied line had been halted and thrown back, with planes alone knocking out 163 enemy tanks. Gethemo, between Mortain and Vire, was among towns taken by the Allies.

The Canadian First Army, which also includes some British units, sweeps through the blasted strongpoints of May-Sur-Orne and St. Martin-de-Fontenay east of the Orne river; which the Germans have defended fanatically for weeks.

A furious battle was reported raging around bitterly contested Tilly-la-Campagne, five miles below Caen. The town long since has been demolished but remains a valuable artillery position.

Retake Mortain

Fighting was reported continuing today in the five-mile quadrangle north of Mortain, where the Germans yesterday launched their largest counterattack since the Allies stormed ashore on France last June 6. Mortain, however, was back in American hands.

The American clean up of the Breton peninsula continued. Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank-infantry teams were within five miles of the big southern naval and submarine base of Lorient.

Other U. S. forces were fighting within four miles of the second French port of Brest and its mile of deep-water quays. At the weekend, American troops had been inside the city of 70,000.

Smoke from large fires rose from St. Malo and Lorient, indicating the Germans were destroying supplies and preparing to pull out.

The menacing giant pincer thrusts toward Paris, the keystone of the Nazis' shaky western conquest, was being carried out on the 28th anniversary of the Germans' "blackest day" of the First World War.

Strike Loss
Equivalent To
5 Destroyers
Or 267 Planes

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Frank L. McNamee, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, said today the loss of 4,000,000 man-hours in defense plants during the city's six-day transit strike cost the nation's war production the equivalent of 267 Flying Fortresses or five destroyers.

The hours-lost figure covered only war plants, McNamee said, and did not include time lost by employees who arrived late or time lost by employees of subcontractors, which he estimated would represent an additional 1,000,000 man-hours.

Federal Probe
Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Philadelphia looked to FBI agents and a federal grand jury today for possible sensational disclosures in a paralyzing, six-day transit strike that developed with flashing suddenness and without apparent organized leadership, inspiring a union's charges of "company collusion" and "sinister enemy activity."

"We are going after the big fish," a federal spokesman said as the FBI massed data and the grand jury prepared to convene tomorrow (10 a. m. EDT) to hear at least 35 persons, including strikers, Philadelphia Transportation company officials, officers of the CIO Transport Workers union and government war agency officials.

"I would think the inquiry will last at least a week, longer if necessary," said Henry A. Schweinhaut, a special assistant to Attorney General Biddle, sent here to direct the probe.

"The workers were . . . pushed out on a checker board as pawns in a sinister game," said the CIO Transport Workers union.

Army Controls Lines
The strike, a protest against the upgrading of eight negroes to drivers' jobs under a fair employment practice committee directive, began early last Tuesday morning without apparent warning and was crushed completely early yesterday after the Army seized the lines by order of President Roosevelt. Armed troops continued to ride every moving bus, trolley, subway and subway-elevated train today.

Only 181 workers of the company's 6,000 operating employees "failed to report during the first 24 hours of resumed operations," the Army said, adding that this was considerably below the daily absentee average of 450. Previously the Army said 13 workers failed to report.

A federal spokesman said the special investigating jury would summon Frank L. McNamee, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, and McNamee—who estimated 4,000,000 man-hours lost to war production through stoppage—said a PTC official had proposed that the employment directive be vacated as "the price of ending the tie-up."

5 Negroes Idle
"If the grand jury call me," McNamee said, "I am prepared to lay this matter before it in great detail. It seems to me the circumstances are well worth investigating."

Five of the eight negroes who were scheduled to begin training as operators when the work stoppage began last Tuesday, reported to PTC instruction depots yesterday but were told to "go home and call back tomorrow, to see whether you are to report for work."

Meanwhile the four strike leaders, dismissed when they appeared for work yesterday, are free on $2,500 bonds pending a hearing August 14 on charges of violating the Smith-Connally wartime anti-strike act.

The four, who pleaded innocent, are James H. McMenamin, 43, chairman of the strike committee; Vice Chairman William C. Dixey; Frank P. Carney, four times president of the company union displaced as bargaining agent by the TWU; and Frank Thompson, a frequent spokesman for McMenamin.

Has No Regrets
"I have no regrets for my actions during the last week," McMenamin said.

"Most PTC men feel very sorry because they haven't got justice. The men felt it was a protest, not a strike. They hoped some agency would give them a fair and just hearing, but none was offered. There was no cooperation."

"I feel personally there is no guilt involved. I was no more a leader than any of the 6,000 employees. I only acted as a spokesman because they asked me to," McMenamin declared.

With the city's 1,500,000 daily riders once more traveling to work on schedule, the Army looked for a return to normal production today in the nation's third largest city and second largest war producing center.

Reds Strangling
Nazi Defense In
Heart Of Poland

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—A new eruption of Red Army attacks which captured more than 60 communities beyond the enemy's broken Vistula river defenses threatened today to strangle German communications between Krakow and Warsaw in the heart of Poland.

Striking out afresh yesterday from the Vistula bridgehead, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine Army reached points 30 miles west of the river, Soviet field dispatches said.

(Today's German radio communiqué suggested that Russian armies which established a 41-mile front on the west bank of the Vistula river 110 miles southeast of Warsaw, struck violently to the northwest, seeking to curl around and encircle Warsaw.

Heavy Fighting
"Northwest of Baranow, the enemy broke into our positions with strong forces," the communiqué said. "German reserves launched a counterattack at once. Heavy fighting is in progress."

(The Germans also reported breaks in their lines north of the Dvina river and north of Birsien in the Latvia-Estonia trap, where 20 to 25 Nazi divisions were cut off from German land communications by a Russian plunge to the Baltic west of Riga.)

Thrusting beyond newly-occupied Szydlow, the Russians directly menaced Kielce, astride highway and rail arteries 25 miles to the northwest.

Last reports placed Soviet spearheads within 37 miles of Krakow, last big Nazi bastion before German Silesia, now 75 to 90 miles away.

Moscow's guns sounded last night for twin victories—the fall of the oil center of Boryslaw in the Carpathians, and the capture of Sambor, communications hub whose fall gave the Russians a grip on five routes leading into nearby Czechoslovakia.

Capture Oil Wells

(Information available in London indicated that through capture of Boryslaw the Russians had regained some 2,000 Galician oil wells which had been feeding the Nazi war machine. The Germans thus were left only the Ploesti fields in Romania, which have been repeatedly bombed by Allied airmen.)

Far to the north three powerful Soviet armies began a pincers movement on German East Prussia along a 200-mile front.

With the Red Army fighting virtually on the East Prussian border, hundreds of Stormoviks, Bostons and Soviet medium bombers went into attacks against East Prussian towns, railroads and highways today.

Izvestia commented that "the hour of revenge has come."

Pfc. Feeser was inducted into the Army at New Cumberland January 9, 1943. After receiving his basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., he was sent to California and from there was sent to Hawaii and later to the South Pacific area. He had not been home since his induction.

Sister Lives Here

Prior to his induction he was well-known as a professional roller skater. He managed the rink at Forest Park, Hanover, for three summers and was manager of the rink at Taneytown for two seasons. He also managed a rink in Catiz, Ohio. While in the west he did exhibition skating.

In addition to his parents he is survived by the following brothers and sisters, Cpl. Harry D. Gardner, Calif.; Pvt. John, Jr., Ft. McClellan; Mrs. Paul Anzengruber, York street; Arveta, at home; Mrs. H. L. Snyder, Littlestown, and Mrs. Kenneth Olinger, Littlestown.

Pfc. Feeser was a life-long member of Christ Reformed church, Littlestown. He attended the Littlestown grade and high schools.

Rev. Slifer Called To British Guiana

The Rev. Luther W. Slifer, North Washington street, has accepted a call to do Lutheran mission work in British Guiana, South America, and will leave next Wednesday for New Amsterdam where he will be stationed.

The Rev. Mr. Slifer returned here last June from that place where he had substituted for a while. He expects to be located at New Amsterdam for approximately three years.

He will be accompanied by his wife and six-year-old son, Teddy.

Club Activities

Future programs and activities of the Gettysburg Lions club were outlined at a weekly-table discussion held at the round-table dinner meeting at Mrs. Smith's restaurant, Monday evening. President J. Milton Bender presided with C. Paul Cessna, program chairman, in charge of the discussion.

Ralph Z. Oyler, chairman of the auditing committee, submitted a semi-annual report showing that in the last six months the Lions spent $148 on community projects. Glenn L. Bream and James Shenk were the other members of the auditing committee.

MINUTEMEN TO HOLD PICNIC;
INVITE GUESTS

Members of Adams county's Company A-1 of the Pennsylvania Minutemen will hold a picnic Sunday afternoon at Sheffer's, formerly Geiman's, park along the Biglerville road beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Members and their families and a few invited guests will attend.

The special guests will include Col. John E. Shade, Harrisburg, adjutant to General Vail, commander of the State Guard; Judge and Mrs. W. C. Sheely and the county commissioners and their wives.

Review And Drill

Members of the company are urged to go to the picnic in uniform and with arms. The afternoon's program will feature a military review and drill for Colonel Shade and the other guests.

A softball game between the two platoons of the company will also be staged. The committee on arrangements for the picnic includes: George L. Bushman, chairman; Raymond Menges, Daniel Miller, George Naugle and Lewis Chamberlain.

Instead of a basket lunch as was previously planned, the committee has arranged to furnish the picnickers with a lunch to be prepared and served by Cloyd Shetter.

Minutemen who were not present for last week's drill are asked to report to Chairman Bushman by mail or otherwise on the number of persons in their families who will attend the outing.

Sheely Presides
In Dauphin Court

Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams County court, presided Monday in Dauphin County court when an argument was heard on the motion to quash indictments against two Harrisburg lawyers charged with conspiracy, embezzlement and fraud by agent of bank.

The attorneys, Wolfe Rosenberg and Robert Rosenberg were accused of having persuaded Val E. Weldon, Enola, a former bookkeeper at the Market Street Trust company, Harrisburg, to carry over-drafts in the law firm's account. A total of $3,203.21 was said to be involved.

Thomas D. Caldwell, counsel for the Rosenbergs, attacked the legal sufficiency of the indictments and contended they were defective.

Supplemental briefs will be filed with the court later by both the commonwealth and the defendants.

Dr. Bowen To Give

Dr. Earl Bowen, professor of biology at Gettysburg college, will be the speaker for the fourth session of the nutrition course being offered local women by the canteen committee of the Red Cross. Two Strong
Surges Make
Foe Cringe

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Berlin radio declared today that Americans had broken into the northern Breton port of St. Malo at one point, and asserted the Nazi garrison is fighting to hold the town.

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 8 (AP) Allied troops advancing in two powerful surges at the wings of a 130-mile front drove today to little more than 100 miles from Paris, and the Germans desperately rushed in forces from southern France.

Canadian troops hammered four miles into the main enemy line below Caen, and Americans on the southern flank struck toward Le Mans, only 100 miles from the French capital. Advance elements already were reported in Le Mans, a road-and-rail hub.

The doughboy drive left behind to the northwest the wreckage of the Germans' abortive but still-writhing counter-attack in the Mortain area.

Erroneous Report

The exact sector where the Allies were little more than 100 miles from Paris was not specified. A report that Allied forces had definitely passed the 100-mile mark circulated late today, but proved erroneous.

At the northern end of the Allied front, the Germans' stout Caen hinge, loosened by an unprecedented 1,000-plane bombardment last night, was battered again in daylight by 600 U. S. heavy bombers.

Canadian-British troops stormed over the Orne river in a four-mile advance. They punched through a once-impenetrable anti-tank screen, seizing strongpoint villages by the dozen.

On the Breton peninsula, U. S. troops battled against stubborn resistance for the northern port of St. Malo, fought on the outskirts of Brest, and threw a concentrated attack against Lorient.

Rush Reinforcements

The Germans rushed in reinforcements against the rising Allied threat to Paris. It was the 26th anniversary of their "blackest day" of World War One when the German high command decided the war was lost.

Their counterattack in the center of the Allied line had been halted and thrown back, with planes alone knocking out 163 enemy tanks.

Gathemo, between Mortain and Vire, was among towns taken by the Allies.

The Canadian First Army, which also includes some British units, swept through the blasted strongpoints of May-Sur-Orne and St. Martin-de Fontenay east of the Orne river which the Germans have defended fanatically for weeks.

A furious battle was reported raging along bitterly contested Tilly-la-Campagne, five miles below Caen. The town long since has been demolished but remains a valuable artillery position.

Retake Mortain

Fighting was reported continuing today in the five-mile quadrangle north of Mortain, where the Germans yesterday launched their largest counterattack since the Allies stormed ashore on France last June 6. Mortain, however, was back in American hands.

The American clean up of the Breton peninsula continued. Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank-infantry teams were within five miles of the big southern naval and submarine base of Lorient.

Other U. S. forces were fighting within four miles of the second French port of Brest and its mile of deep-water quays. At the week-end, American troops had been inside the city of 70,000.

Smoke from large fires rose from St. Malo and Lorient, indicating the Germans were destroying supplies and preparing to pull out.

The menacing giant pincer thrusts toward Paris, the keystone of the Nazis' shaky western conquests, was being carried out on the 26th anniversary of the Germans' "blackest day" of the First World War.

ARRIVES IN FRANCE

Pfc. Raymond D. Ketterman, son of Mrs. Alice Ketterman, Gettysburg R. 2, has arrived in France. He was recently discharged from a hospital in England where he was confined due to illness.

Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore was in Harrisburg today to attend the opening sessions of a two-day meeting of state inheritance tax appraisers.

Strike Loss
Equivalent To
5 Destroyers
Or 267 Planes

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Frank L. McNamee, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, said today the loss of 4,000,000 man-hours in defense plants during the city's six-day transit strike cost the nation's war production the equivalent of 267 Flying Fortresses or five destroyers.

The hours-lost figure covered only war plants, McNamee said, and did not include time lost by employees who arrived late or time lost by employees of subcontractors, which he estimated would represent an additional 1,000,000 man-hours.

Federal Probe
Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Philadelphia looked to FBI agents and a federal grand jury today for possible sensational disclosures in a paralyzing, six-day transit strike that developed with flashing suddenness and without apparent organized leadership, inspiring a union's charges of "company collusion" and "sinister enemy activity."

"We are going after the big fish," a federal spokesman said as the FBI massed data and the grand jury prepared to convene tomorrow (10 a. m. EDT) to hear at least 35 persons, including strikers, Philadelphia Transportation company officials, officers of the CIO Transport Workers union and government war agency officials.

"I would think the inquiry will last at least a week, longer if necessary," said Henry A. Schweinhaut, a special assistant to Attorney General Biddle, sent here to direct the probe.

"The workers were * * * pushed out on a checker board as pawns in a sinister game," said the CIO Transport Workers union.

Army Controls Lines
The strike, a protest against the upgrading of eight negroes to drivers' jobs under a fair employment practice committee directive, began early last Tuesday morning without apparent warning and was crushed completely early yesterday after the Army seized the lines by order of President Roosevelt. Armed troops continued to ride every moving bus, trolley, subway and subway-elevated train today.

Only 181 workers of the company's 6,000 operating employees "failed to report during the first 24 hours of resumed operations," the Army said, adding that this was considerably below the daily absentee average of 650. Previously the Army said 13 workers failed to report.

A federal spokesman said the special investigating jury would summon Frank L. McNamee, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, and McNamee—who estimated 4,000,000 man-hours lost to war production through stoppage—said a PTC official had proposed that the employment directive be vacated as "the price of ending the tie-up."

5 Negroes Idle
"If the grand jury call me," McNamee said, "I am prepared to lay this matter before it in great detail. It seems to me the circumstances are well worth investigating."

Five of the eight negroes who were scheduled to begin training as operators when the work stoppage began last Tuesday, reported to PTC instruction depots yesterday but were told to "go home and call back tomorrow to see whether you are to report for work."

Meanwhile the four strike leaders, dismissed when they appeared for work yesterday, are free on $2,500 bonds pending a hearing August 14 on charges of violating the Smith-Connally wartime anti-strike act.

The four, who pleaded innocent, are James H. McMenamin, 43, chairman of the strike committee; Vice Chairman William C. Dixey; Frank P. Carney, four times president of the company union displaced as bargaining agent by the TWU; and Frank Thompson, a frequent spokesman for McMenamin.

Has No Regrets
"I have no regrets for my actions during the last week," McMenamin said.

"Most PTC men feel very sour because they haven't got justice. The men felt it was a protest, not a strike. They hoped some agency would give them a fair and just hearing, but none was offered. There was no cooperation."

"I feel personally there is no guilt involved. I was no more a leader than any of the 6,000 employees. I only acted as a spokesman because they asked me to," McMenamin declared.

With the city's 1,500,000 daily riders once more traveling to work on schedule, the Army looked for a return to normal production today in the nation's third largest city and second largest war producing center.

ORDAIN STREET

Borough council at its August meeting Monday evening authorized the making of a detailed profile map of the Tiber as a preliminary to future improvements in the channel of the flood-ridden stream; ordained an extension of Hay street to Buford avenue over theological seminary land which is being donated to the town, and authorized the employment of an additional part-time police officer to help curb street noises in Gettysburg at night.

After a number of complaints had been received on bad pavements in the town and instances in which borough notices to lay or repair pavements had been ignored were cited, council decided to study the pavement ordinance for the purpose of working out a more effective method of securing sidewalk repairs after notices are sent.

Girl To Hospital
Shortly after noon today it was announced that Marlene Dove, still unconscious, was being rushed to the University of Pennsylvania hospital at Philadelphia.

State police here sent a telephone message ahead of the speeding taxi that carried the girl toward Philadelphia and police escorts met the taxi at the edge of York and other towns and cities along the way to make sure that traffic did not hold up the car carrying the unconscious girl. In York all traffic stopped in Market Square as a police car raced ahead of the taxi with its siren screaming.

The trip was begun here at 10:10 o'clock. She was being rushed to a specialist in brain surgery at the University hospital.

Marlene Dove, aged a year and a half, Gettysburg, suffered a cerebral concussion and a possible fracture of the skull Monday evening when she ran against the rear fender of a car passing the home of Mrs. Belle Scott, York Springs R. D., where the child was visiting.

The mishap occurred about 5:25 o'clock a mile and a half north of Heidelsburg on the Harrisburg highway. Earl Pyle, colored, 145 Breckenridge street, driver of the car, said he applied his brakes and swerved his car in an effort to avoid the child. The youngster had darted from the Scott yard through a hole in the fence, police said.

A motorist took the child to the hospital where her condition was described today as serious. She remains unconscious.

The mishap was investigated by Pvt. George Ackerson of the Gettysburg detail of the state police.

U. S. CEMETERIES

Representatives of the American Legion posts of York, Adams and Franklin counties, at a twenty-second district meeting here Monday evening, endorsed a resolution passed by the Albert J. Lentz post, of Gettysburg, last month, asking that Congress restore national cemeteries to the jurisdiction of the War Department and demanding that cemetery superintendents and employees be honorably discharged veterans.

The veterans also adopted a resolution calling for the appropriation of state funds for the expansion of facilities at the Scotland school to accommodate a new generation of war orphans.

Both measures will be presented to the state Legion convention at Harrisburg later this month for ratification.

New Commander

Jerry G. Allen, superintendent of the Scotland school and senior vice commander of the Chambersburg post of the Legion, was elected district commander by state convention delegates from York, Adams and Franklin counties at a caucus here Monday evening following the regular district session.

Allen will succeed Stanton D. House, Aspers, first district commander from Adams county, who is ending a two-year term of office. He presided Monday evening and was praised by Lou Harris, Lewisburg, eastern department vice commander, as the commander of the first district in the eastern area to exceed the membership goal this year.

Monday's session was the last district meeting before the state convention which will be held in Harrisburg from August 16 to 19. Thirteen of the district's posts were represented. The absentees were Stewartstown, St. Thomas, Greencastle and Dry Run.

Members of Adams county's Company A-1 of the Pennsylvania Minutemen will hold a picnic Sunday afternoon at Sheffer's, formerly Geiman's, park along the Biglerville road beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Members and their families and a few invited guests will attend.

The special guests will include Col. John E. Shade, Harrisburg, adjutant to General Vail, commander of the State Guard; Judge and Mrs. W. C. Sheely and the county commissioners and their wives.

Review And Drill
Members of the company are urged to go to the picnic in uniform and with arms. The afternoon's program will feature a military review and drill for Colonel Shade and the other guests.

A softball game between the two platoons of the company will also be staged. The committee on arrangements for the picnic includes: George L. Bushman, chairman; Raymond Menges, Daniel Miller, George Naugle and Lewis Chamberlain.

Instead of a basket lunch as was previously planned, the committee has arranged to furnish the picnickers with a lunch to be prepared and served by Cloyd Shetter.

Minutemen who were not present for last week's drill are asked to report to Chairman Bushman by mail or otherwise on the number of persons in their families who will attend the outing.

Sheely Presides
In Dauphin Court

Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams County court, presided Monday in Dauphin County court when an argument was heard on the motion to quash indictments against two Harrisburg lawyers charged with conspiracy, embezzlement and fraud by agency of bank.

The attorneys, Wolfe Rosenberg and Robert Rosenberg were accused of having persuaded Val E. Weldon, Enola, a former bookkeeper at the Market Street Trust company, Harrisburg, to carry over-drafts in the law firm's account. A total of $3,203.21 was said to be involved.

Thomas D. Caldwell, counsel for the Rosenbergs, attacked the legal sufficiency of the indictments and contended they were defective.

Supplemental briefs will be filed with the court later by both the commonwealth and the defendants.

Dr. Earl Bowen, professor of biology at Gettysburg college, will be the speaker for the fourth session of the nutrition course being offered local women by the canteen committee of the Red Cross. The session will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the biology lecture room on the third floor of Glatfelter hall on the campus.

Doctor Bowen will speak on "Vitamins" and will illustrate his lecture with slides.

Two Strong
Surges Make
Foe Cringe

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Berlin radio declared today that Americans had broken into the northern Breton port of St. Malo at one point, and asserted the Nazi garrison is fighting to hold the town.

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 8 (AP) Allied troops advancing in two powerful surges at the wings of a 130-mile front drove today to little more than 100 miles from Paris, and the Germans desperately rushed in forces from southern France.

Canadian troops hammered four miles into the main enemy line below Caen, and Americans on the southern flank struck toward Le Mans, only 100 miles from the French capital. Advance elements already were reported in Le Mans, a road-and-rail hub.

The doughboy drive left behind to the northwest the wreckage of the Germans' abortive but still-writhing counter-attack in the Mortain area.

Erroneous Report

The exact sector where the Allies were little more than 100 miles from Paris was not specified. A report that Allied forces had definitely passed the 100-mile mark circulated late today, but proved erroneous.

At the northern end of the Allied front, the Germans' stout Caen hinge, loosened by an unprecedented 1,000-plane bombardment last night, was battered again in daylight by 600 U. S. heavy bombers.

Canadian-British troops stormed over the Orne river in a four-mile advance. They punched through a once-impregnable anti-tank screen, seizing strongpoint villages by the dozen.

On the Breton peninsula, U. S. troops battled against stubborn resistance for the northern port of St. Malo, fought on the outskirts of Brest, and threw a concentrated attack against Lorient.

Rush Reinforcements

The Germans rushed in reinforcements against the rising Allied threat to Paris. It was the 26th anniversary of their "blackest day" of World War One when the German high command decided the war was lost.

Their counterattack in the center of the Allied line had been halted and thrown back, with planes alone knocking out 163 enemy tanks.

Gathemo, between Mortain and Vire, was among towns taken by the Allies.

The Canadian First Army, which also includes some British units, swept through the blasted strongpoints of May-Sur-Orne and St. Martin-de Fontenay east of the Orne river which the Germans have defended fanatically for weeks.

A furious battle was reported raging around bitterly contested Tilly-la-Campagne, five miles below Caen. The town long since has been demolished but remains a valuable artillery position.

Retake Mortain

Fighting was reported continuing today in the five-mile quadrangle north of Mortain, where the Germans yesterday launched their largest counterattack since the Allies stormed ashore on France last June 6. Mortain, however, was back in American hands.

The American clean up of the Breton peninsula continued. Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank-infantry teams were within five miles of the big southern naval and submarine base of Lorient.

Other U. S. forces were fighting within four miles of the second French port of Brest and its mile of deep-water quays. At the week-end, American troops had been inside the city of 70,000.

Smoke from large fires rose from St. Malo and Lorient, indicating the Germans were destroying supplies and preparing to pull out.

The menacing giant pincer thrusts toward Paris, the keystone of the Nazis' shaky western conquests, was being carried out on the 26th anniversary of the Germans' "blackest day" of the First World war.

ARRIVES IN FRANCE

Pfc. Raymond D. Ketterman, son of Mrs. Alice Ketterman, Gettysburg R. 2, has arrived in France. He was recently discharged from a hospital in England where he was confined due to illness.

AT STATE MEETING

Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore was in Harrisburg today to attend the opening sessions of a two-day meeting of state inheritance tax appraisers.

BOCHE FORCED TO RETREAT ON RUBBER FRONT

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
With Hitler bent on a final fight—if he can force his armies and Luftwaffe to support him—the question naturally arises as to where he intends to make his stand against the Allied drives in the western and eastern theaters.
First we must note that his general strategy provides for delaying action while he retreats as gradually as possible to his inner fortress, that is, to the borders of the Reich itself. This strategy will permit, although there will be tactical innovations to meet emergencies.
For instance, the Germans predict an invasion of southern France through the Rhone valley. Should that eventuate—and it certainly might—it would create a fresh crisis for Hitler, but it wouldn't alter his broad program of retreatment for a last-ditch fight on his own borders.
Defensive Tactics
In France the Fuehrer is swinging his front in the invasion zone back to the northeast, using the bloody Caen sector as his pivot. A dispatch from Spain says he even has abandoned his Atlantic defenses in southwest France, except for a light guard, and is withdrawing his troops northward because of the Allied successes in Normandy and Brittany.
Yesterday's unsuccessful German counter-attack against the Americans in the Avranches sector fits into this picture perfectly. It was purely defensive and was calculated to delay the Allied advance towards Paris, thereby safeguarding the Nazi retreat.
The main German retirement will be northward, covering both Paris and the vital English channel coast. Hitler will defend Paris if he can, but he likely will find it a hot potato to hang onto. He must protect the coast during his retreat in order to prevent the Allies from pouring troops and equipment into France across the narrow part of the channel and cutting his line of withdrawal. This area also is the resting ground for the robot bombs which he hopes will crack British morale.
Follow Old Route
The Nazi dictator presumably will continue over the old invasion route through Belgium and hence into Germany. He may try to make a stand behind the Maginot line and undoubtedly will do so back of his own Siegfried wall. The fact that he himself outfanked the Maginot line at the outset of the war doesn't prove that such defenses are useless. Should the Germans have to defend the Rhone valley, their ultimate course of retreat probably would be across the southwest German border in the Belfort area.
Over on the Russo-German front the Hitlerites already are making their last big stand before they reach their own frontier. They're trying to hold a front protruding the "sacred" East Prussian border and thence southward along the line of the great Visula river which runs through besieged Warsaw.
Several Defenses
Once the Nazis are forced to abandon this line, there will be no strong natural defenses until they finally reach the big Oder river inside the boundary of the Fatherland. True, they have prepared several lines of defense between the Visula and the Reich, but these fortifications lack the natural features to give them strength.
The fighting at strategic points is fierce, and it may be the Nazis are getting some easements through possible Russian need to slow up momentarily in order to bring forward communications after the long, fast drive of the Red Armies. However, the Muscovites have the situation well in hand. They're across the Visula in the Cracow sector, a dangerous zone for the Hitlerites. A Red breakthrough below Warsaw would turn the whole German flank and force wholesale withdrawal.

Mr. Harris told the Legionnaires of the state-wide drive by Legion posts to sell $2,000,000 in war bonds to finance five bombers in memory of the five deceased department commanders of Pennsylvania. Each bomber will bear the name of one of these five past commanders: David J. Davis, Joseph H. Thompson, J. Leo Collins, Edward E. Holtenbeck and William F. Smith. The bond-selling drive will go over the top before it closes August 17. Mr. Harris predicted.
Explains GI Bill
He made special mention in his official report for the year of Commander House's record in this district and reported the current Legion enrollment in Pennsylvania is 103,000. He also explained the provisions and operation of the "GI Bill" for veterans returning from active duty in this war.
The district meeting followed a brief regular session of the Lantz post. About 150 Legion men from many sections of the three counties attended the district meeting.

COUNCIL ORDERS

as being unable to handle flood waters.

Work On Tiber
Mr. Corle said that while his sewer committee had no special recommendation to make on the Tiber work, they felt that the making of a detailed map of the Tiber from the North Washington street bridge to West Middle street at a cost of about $200 is the first step toward future improvements which will have to be made with the permission of the state.

Councilmen agreed that Tiber im-provements have been "rather haphazard" in the past and that the map would be the first step in a long-range program. Mr. Winebrenner is to make the map.

Council was told that South Washington street pavements along properties of Mrs. McCrea Dickson and C. C. Reuning are in bad repair and that 30-day notices to each owner have not brought results. A hole in the pavement of Mrs. Dorsey Dougherty, Baltimore street, near center square, also was complained about and council ordered a 30-day notice sent to Mrs. Dougherty.

To Enforce Order
E. V. Bullett, Esq., borough attorney, was directed to confer with Mrs. Dickson's attorney on the matter of her pavement. The suggestion was made that a committee be assigned the job of following up 30-day paving notices with action, instead of following the "haphazard" way now in use that "allows pavements to go years without repairs even after repeated complaints and final notices."

After Burgess Fred C. Pfeffer told council of the many complaints he had received about street noises at night, he asked authority to employ an extra officer as needed, at night, and said Paul "Bud" Anzengruber, York street, was an applicant for the job. Anzengruber was approved and will be paid on an hourly basis.

"Some young fellows around town have been playing a cat and mouse game with the police here at night and one officer isn't enough to deal with the situation," the burgess said. "The streets are infested with drunks after they are thrown out of the saloons when those places close and there is frequent need for an extra officer." He pointed out that Anzengruber has had some special police experience.

Chaff Complaint
D. C. Stallsmit appeared before council to complain about chaff from the C. M. Wolf warehouse drifting into houses along that section of North Stratton street. He was referred to Mr. Bullett who said he was inclined to the opinion that the warehouse condition was a private nuisance and should either be handled by the residents of that section or by the police, in event it is found to be a public nuisance. He said no council action was required.

Mr. Winebrenner told council parking lines have been painted on the streets, oiling and patching is being done, minor repairs have been made to the Tiber wall and a diversion wall has been repaired in Rock Creek at the disposal plant. He recommended painting and repairs to the dry house at the disposal plant.

A complaint was received about a street opening made by the gas company at York and Stratton streets which remains after five weeks. An investigation will be made.

Monthly Reports
The monthly report of the burgess showed $502.10 collected as follows last month: Fine, $1; roller permit, $16.50; garbage license, $15, and theater tax, $469.60.

The monthly report of Borough Treasurer John H. Bashore showed a balance of $32,694 in the general fund after expenses for July of $3,807 were paid. Receipts for the month amounted to $11,635 and included tax payments, chiefly from the 1944 duplicate, of about $10,500 from Collector J. Herbert Weikert.

The treasurer's report showed H. H. Thomas turned over $121.31 for the general fund from the 1939 duplicate and $234.69 from the 1940 duplicate on July 7. Council had no report on the progress of the delinquent tax investigation here but members said they understood auditors are still working on the figures.

President H. M. Opler presided at the meeting with Councilmen L. D. Sheeler, Harry E. Koch, Fred A. Hummelbaugh, Harry Troxell, Vernon Corle and George D. March: Burgess Pfeffer, Mr. Bullett, Mr. Winebrenner, Mr. Bashore and the borough secretary, Mrs. Anna B. Dracha in attendance.

HOSPITAL REPORT
Patricia Ann Beall, Emmitsburg; Mrs. George Harbaugh, Orttanna; Pearl Lemmon, Westminster; Mrs. Vincent Hurdagun, Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Martin Melhorn, Orttanna, have been admitted as patients to the Warner hospital. Those discharged were Charles W. Johnson, McKnightstown; Alvin Krumrine, Littlestown, and Victor Eyer, Emmitsburg.

FIRE DRILL TONIGHT
Members of the Gettysburg fire company will hold a drill this evening at 6:45 o'clock and will gather at the Firemen's Retreat in the South Mountains Wednesday evening for the August meeting. The business session will be convened about 7 o'clock.

Harrisburg, Aug. 8 (AP)—Military authorities took a hand today in efforts to end a strike of truckers which seriously crippled over-the-road movement of vital war material in York, Dauphin and Lancaster counties.

Who'll Pay For Vets' Education?

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—When Uncle Sam sends a veteran to a state university, who is going to pay the bill?
That is what education authorities want to know, and they expressed concern today lest a large part of the cost will fall squarely on the state governments.
They said field offices of the Veterans administration have been interpreting the "G. I. Bill of Rights" as meaning the government should pay only the customary student fee—and this amount, say the educators, is seldom more than a third of the cost of instruction.
Dr. Francis J. Brown, consultant of the American Council on Education said, one state university president declared that such a policy would "practically bankrupt" the university and the other colleges of that state.
The Veterans Administration is believed on the verge of announcing a policy, but wouldn't talk about it today.

FOOD PRICES

and other public eating and drinking establishments.

A La Carte Items
Prices for a la carte items and full meals are set at the highest price which was charged for the same item or meal in the establishment during the base period.

Establishments which charged more than week-day prices for their Sunday and holiday meals may continue to do so. It is emphasized, however, that the Sunday prices may not exceed those charged on Sundays during the base period, and the holiday prices may not exceed 15 per cent more than the Sunday, April 4, 1943 prices. Special New Year's Eve prices are limited to those charged on New Year's Eve 1942.

Beverage ceiling prices, including those of alcoholic beverages are the same as those charged by each establishment during the base period, plus any taxes that legally can be passed on to customers.

Allies Advancing
In Burma Sectors
Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 8 (AP)—Allied patrols, fanning out beyond captured Tamu into the frontier region of northwestern Burma, have crossed the Yu river without meeting any resistance from Japanese forces retreating toward the Chindwin. Allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time, on the Indian side of the border, other Allied forces moving southward along the highway from Imphal to Tiddim were reported making satisfactory progress in clearing that artery of the enemy.

BRITISH FLY NIGHT FLIGHT TO AID TROOPS

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Flying in close support of ground forces during darkness for the first time, 1,000 British four-engined Lancaster bombers blasted German positions below Caen last night blazing a trail for the Canadian First Army's smashing new attack.
In the hour before midnight, the big bombers dumped an estimated 6,700 tons of explosives on enemy fortified points in the area of May-sur-Orne and Tilly la Campagne on both sides of the Caen-Palaise road.
Allied air fleets made new attack on the enemy today.
The midnight bombardment formed one of three separate phases in aerial support given Gen. Eisenhower's advancing armies.
The other two phases, in which Allied armor dealt hard blows to German armor, transport and supply, were:
1.) British rocket-firing typhoons and fighter-bombers teamed with American fighter-bombers and knocked out at least 163 tanks in repeated blows against a counter-attack on the American Avranches corridor.
2.) American heavy bombers, fighters and fighter-bombers ranged over France from end to end, smashing German transport routes, supply centers.
In the Avranches sector, the British Second Tactical Air force destroyed 81 tanks and damaged 54. The U. S. Ninth Air force destroyed 26 and damaged a large number.
All operations over France yesterday and last night totalled more than 4,000 offensive sorties.
Great destruction was created close behind the German lines as bombers and fighters attacked 10 major transportation targets and 11 major fuel dumps. Fighter-bombers destroyed or damaged 131 locomotives, 582 railroad cars, and 195 motor vehicles.
RAF bombers based in Italy struck the Szombathely airfield south of Vienna, burning a number of parked German planes.
Only a few hours before Italian-based American heavy bombers penetrated German and attacked two synthetic oil plants at Blechhammer, leaving large fires burning. The Mediterranean air forces destroyed 29 German planes in combat and lost 22.
The Russian communiqué, listed 117 German planes destroyed yesterday, raising the Allied toll to at least 186, exclusive of those shot up a ground.

COUNCIL ORDERS

Work On Tiber

Mr. Corle said that while his sewer committee had no special recommendation to make on the Tiber work, they felt that the making of a detailed map of the Tiber from the North Washington street bridge to West Middle street at a cost of about $200 is the first step toward future improvements which will have to be made with the permission of the state.

Councilmen agreed that Tiber improvements have been "rather haphazard" in the past and that a map would be the first step in a long-range program. Mr. Winebrenner is to make the map.

Council was told that South Washington street pavements along properties of Mrs. McCrea Dickson and C. C. Reuning are in bad repair and that 30-day notices to each owner have not brought results. A hole in the pavement of Mrs. Dorsey Dougherty, Baltimore street, near center square, also was complained about and council ordered a 30-day notice sent to Mrs. Dougherty.

To Enforce Order

E. V. Bulleit, Esq., borough attorney, was directed to confer with Mrs. Dickson's attorney on the matter of her pavement. The suggestion was made that a committee be assigned the job of following up 30-day paving notices with action instead of following the "haphazard" way now in use that "allows pavements to go years without repairs even after repeated complaints and final notices."

After Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer told council of the many complaints he had received about street noises at night, he asked authority to employ an extra officer as needed at night and said Paul "Bud" Anzengruber, York street, was an applicant for the job. Anzengruber was approved and will be paid on an hourly basis.

"Some young fellows around town have been playing a 'cat and mouse' game with the police here at night and one officer isn't enough to deal with the situation," the burgess said. "The streets are infested with drunks after they are thrown out of the saloons when those places close and there is frequent need for an extra officer." He pointed out that Anzengruber has had some special police experience.

Chaff Complaint

D. C. Stallsmith appeared before council to complain about chaff from the C. M. Wolf warehouse sifting into houses along that section of North Stratton street. He was referred to Mr. Bulleit who said he was inclined to the opinion that the warehouse condition was a private nuisance and should either be handled by the residents of that section or by the police, in event it is found to be a public nuisance. He said no council action was required.

Mr. Winebrenner told council parking lines have been painted on the streets, oiling and patching is being done, minor repairs have been made to the Tiber wall and a diversion wall has been repaired in Rock Creek at the disposal plant. He recommended painting and repairs to the dry house at the disposal plant.

A complaint was received about a street opening made by the gas company at York and Stratton streets which remains after five weeks. An investigation will be made.

Monthly Reports

The monthly report of the burgess showed $502.10 collected as follows last month: Fine, $1; roller permit, $16.50; garbage license, $15, and theater tax, $469.60.

The monthly report of Borough Treasurer John H. Basehore showed a balance of $32,694 in the general fund after expenses for July of $3,807 were paid. Receipts for the month amounted to $11,635 and included tax payments, chiefly from the 1944 duplicate, of about $10,500 from Collector J. Herbert Weikert.

The treasurer's report showed H. H. Thomas turned over $121.31 for the general fund from the 1939 duplicate and $234.69 from the 1940 duplicate on July 27. Council had no report on the progress of the delinquent tax investigation here but members said they understood auditors are still working on the figures.

President H. M. Oyler presided at the meeting with Councilmen L. D. Shearer, Harry E. Koch, Fred A. Hummelbaugh, Harry Troxell, Vernon Corle and George D. March; Burgess Pfeffer, Mr. Bulleit, Mr. Winebrenner, Mr. Basehore and the borough secretary, Mrs. Anna B. Dracha in attendance.

Who'll Pay For Vets' Education?

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—When Uncle Sam sends a veteran to a state university, who is going to pay the bill?

That is what education authorities want to know, and they expressed concern today lest a large part of the cost will fall squarely on the state governments.

They said field offices of the Veterans administration have been interpreting the "G.I. Bill of Rights" as meaning the government should pay only the customary student fee—and this amount, say the educators, is seldom more than a third of the cost of instruction.

Dr. Francis J. Brown, consultant of the American Council on Education said, one state university president declared that such a policy would "practically bankrupt" the university and the other colleges of that state.

The Veterans Administration is believed on the verge of announcing a policy, but wouldn't talk about it today.

and other public eating and drinking establishments.

A La Carte Items

Prices for a la carte items and full meals are set at the highest price which was charged for the same item or meal in the establishment during the base period.

Establishments which charged more than week-day prices for their Sunday and holiday meals may continue to do so. It is emphasized, however, that the Sunday prices may not exceed those charged on Sundays during the base period, and the holiday prices may not exceed 15 per cent more than the Sunday, April 4, 1943 prices. Special New Year's Eve prices are limited to those charged on New Year's Eve 1942.

Beverage ceiling prices, including those of alcoholic beverages are the same as those charged by each establishment during the base period, plus any taxes that legally can be passed on to customers.

BRITISH FLY NIGHT FLIGHT TO AID TROOPS

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Flying in close support of ground forces during darkness for the first time, 1,000 British four-engine Lancaster bombers blasted German positions below Caen last night blazing a trail for the Canadian First Army's smashing new attack.

In the hour before midnight, the big bombers dumped an estimated 6,700 tons of explosives on enemy fortified points in the area of May-Asur-Orne and Tilly la Campagne on both sides of the Caen-Palais road.

Allied air fleets made new attacks on the enemy today.

The midnight bombardment formed one of three separate phases in aerial support given Gen. Eisenhower's advancing armies.

The other two phases, in which Allied airmen dealt hard blows to German armor, transport and supply, were:

1) British rocket-firing typhoons and fighter-bombers teamed with American fighter-bombers and knocked out at least 163 tanks in repeated blows against a counter-attack on the American Avranches corridor.

Smash Transport Routes
2) American heavy bombers, fighters and fighter-bombers ranged over France from end to end, smashing German transport routes, supply centers.

In the Avranches sector, the British Second Tactical Air force destroyed 81 tanks and damaged 54. The U. S. Ninth Air force destroyed 26 and damaged a large number.

All operations over France yesterday and last night totalled more than 4,000 offensive sorties.

Great destruction was created close behind the German lines as bombers and fighters attacked 10 major transportation targets and 11 major fuel dumps. Fighter-bombers destroyed or damaged 131 locomotives, 582 railroad cars, and 195 motor vehicles.

RAF bombers based in Italy struck the Szombathely airfield south of Vienna, burning a number of parked German planes.

Only a few hours before Italian-bombed American heavy bombers penetrated German and attacked two synthetic oil plants at Blech-hamer, leaving large fires burning. The Mediterranean air forces destroyed 29 German planes in combat and lost 22.

The Russian communiqué listed 117 German planes destroyed yesterday, raising the Allied toll to at least 166, exclusive of those shot up around.

Mummert, East Berlin, the only woman from that place in the armed forces, has completed her basic training and indoctrination course at Hunter college, New York city, and is now rated as hospital apprentice second class. BOCHE FORCED TO RETREAT ON RUBBER FRONT

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
With Hitler bent on a finish fight—if he can force his armies and homefront to support him—the question naturally arises as to where he intends to make his stands against the Allied drives in the western and eastern theatres.

First we must note that his general strategy provides for delaying action while he retires as gradually as possible to his inner fortress, that is, to the borders of the Reich itself. This strategy will persist, although there will be tactical innovations to meet emergencies.

For instance, the Germans predict an invasion of southern France through the Rhone valley. Should that eventuate—and it certainly might—it would create a fresh crisis for Hitler, but it wouldn't alter his broad program of retreat for a last-ditch fight on his own borders.

Defensive Tactics

In France the Fuehrer is swinging his front in the invasion zone back to the northeast, using the bloody Caen sector as his pivot. A dispatch from Spain says he even has abandoned his Atlantic defenses in southwest France, except for a light guard, and is withdrawing his troops northward because of the Allied successes in Normandy and Brittany.

Yesterday's unsuccessful German counter-attack against the Americans in the Avranches sector fits into this picture perfectly. It was purely defensive and was calculated to delay the Allied advance towards Paris, thereby safeguarding the Nazi retreat.

The main German retirement will be northward, covering both Paris and the vital English channel coast. Hitler will defend Paris if he can, but he likely will find it a hot potato to hang onto. He must protect the coast during his retreat in order to prevent the Allies from pouring troops and equipment into France across the narrow part of the channel and cutting his line of withdrawal. This area also is the nesting ground for the robot bombs which he hopes will crack British morale.

Follow Old Route

The Nazi dictator presumably will continue over the old invasion route through Belgium and hence into Germany. He may try to make a stand behind the Maginot line and undoubtedly will do so back of his own Siegfried wall. The fact that he himself outflanked the Maginot line at the outset of the war doesn't prove that such defenses are useless. Should the Germans have to defend the Rhone valley, their ultimate course of retreat probably would be across the southwest German border in the Belfort area.

Over on the Russo-German front the Hitlerites already are making their last big stand before they reach their own frontier. They're trying to hold a front protecting the "sacred" East Prussian border and thence southward along the line of the great Vistula river which runs through besieged Warsaw.

Several Defenses

Once the Nazis are forced to abandon this line, there will be no strong natural defenses until they finally reach the big Oder river inside the boundary of the Fatherland. True, they have prepared several lines of defense between the Vistula and the Oder, but these fortifications lack the natural features to give them strength.

The fighting at strategic points is fierce, and it may be the Nazis are getting some ease through possible Russian need to slow up momentarily in order to bring forward communications after the long, fast drive of the Red Armies. However, the Muscovites have the situation well in hand. They're across the Vistula in the Cracow sector, a dangerous zone for the Hitlerites. A Red break-through below Warsaw would turn the whole German flank and force wholesale withdrawal.

LEGIONNAIRES

members, Biglerville, 66, and Littlestown, 57. The total of 413 Legionnaires in the county is to be compared with 351 for last year.

Mr. Harris told the Legionnaires of the state-wide drive by Legion posts to sell $2,000,000 in war bonds to finance five bombers in memory of the five deceased department commanders of Pennsylvania. Each bomber will bear the name of one of these five past commanders: David J. Davis, Joseph H. Thompson, J. Leo Collins, Edward E. Holtenback and William F. Smith. The bond-selling drive will go over the top before it closes August 17, Mr. Harris predicted.

Explains GI Bill

He made special mention in his official report for the year of Commander House's record in this district and reported the current Legion enrollment in Pennsylvania is 163,909. He also explained the provisions and operation of the "GI Bill" for veterans returning from active duty in this war.

The district meeting followed a brief report of the Lents post. About 150 Legion men from many sections of the three counties attended the district meeting.

Work On Tiber

Mr. Corle said that while his sewer committee had no special recommendation to make on the Tiber work, they felt that the making of a detailed map of the Tiber from the North Washington street bridge to West Middle street at a cost of about $200 is the first step toward future improvements which will have to be made with the permission of the state.

Councilmen agreed that Tiber improvements have been "rather haphazard" in the past and that the map would be the first step in a long-range program. Mr. Winebrenner is to make the map.

Council was told that South Washington street pavements along properties of Mrs. McCrea Dickson and C. C. Reuning are in bad repair and that 30-day notices to each owner have not brought results. A hole in the pavement of Mrs. Dorsey Dougherty, Baltimore street, near center square, also was complained about and council ordered a 30-day notice sent to Mrs. Dougherty.

To Enforce Order

E. V. Bullett, Esq., borough attorney, was directed to confer with Mrs. Dickson's attorney on the matter of her pavement. The suggestion was made that a committee be assigned the job of following up 30-day paving notices with action instead of following the "haphazard" way now in use that "allows pavements to go years without repairs even after repeated complaints and final notices."

After Burgess Fred G. Pfeiffer told council of the many complaints he had received about street noises at night, he asked authority to "employ an extra officer as needed at night and said Paul "Bud" Anzengruber, York street, was an applicant for the job. Anzengruber was approved and will be paid on an hourly basis.

"Some young fellows around town have been playing a 'cat and mouse' game with the police here at night and one officer isn't enough to deal with the situation," the burgess said. "The streets are infested with drunks after they are thrown out of the saloons when those places close and there is frequent need for an extra officer." He pointed out that Anzengruber has had some special police experience.

Chaff Complaint

D. C. Stallsmith appeared before council to complain about chaff from the C. M. Wolf warehouse sifting into houses along that section of North Stratton street. He was referred to Mr. Bullett who said he was inclined to the opinion that the warehouse condition was a private nuisance and should either be handled by the residents of that section or by the police, in event it is found to be a public nuisance. He said no council action was required.

Mr. Winebrenner told council parking lines have been painted on the streets, oiling and patching is being done, minor repairs have been made to the Tiber wall and a diversion wall has been repaired in Rock Creek at the disposal plant. He recommended painting and repairs to the dry house at the disposal plant.

A complaint was received about a street opening made by the gas company at York and Stratton streets which remains after five weeks. An investigation will be made.

Monthly Reports

The monthly report of the burgess showed $502.10 collected as follows last month: Fine, $1; roller permit, $16.50; garbage license, $15, and theater tax, $469.60.

The monthly report of Borough Treasurer John H. Bashore showed a balance of $32,694 in the general fund after expenses for July of $3,807 were paid. Receipts for the month amounted to $11,635 and included tax payments, chiefly from the 1944 duplicate, of about $10,500 from Collector J. Herbert Weikert.

The treasurer's report showed H. H. Thomas turned over $121.31 for the general fund from the 1939 duplicate and $234.69 from the 1940 duplicate on July 27. Council had no report on the progress of the delinquent tax investigation here but members said they understood auditors are still working on the figures.

President H. M. Oyler presided at the meeting with Councilmen L. D. Shearer, Harry E. Koch, Fred A. Hummelbaugh, Harry Troxell, Vernon Corle and George D. March; Burgess Pfeffer, Mr. Bullett, Mr. Winebrenner, Mr. Bashore and the borough secretary, Mrs. Anna B. Dracha in attendance.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Patricia Ann Beall, Emmitsburg; Mrs. George Harbaugh, Orttanna; Pearl Lemmon, Westminster; Mrs. Vincent Hartdagan, Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Martin Melhorn, Orttanna, have been admitted as patients to the Warner hospital. Those discharged were Charles W. Johnson, McKnightstown; Alvin Krumrine, Littlestown, and Victor Eyer, Emmitsburg.

Who'll Pay For Vets' Education?

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—When Uncle Sam sends a veteran to a state university, who is going to pay the bill?

That is what education authorities want to know, and they expressed concern today lest a large part of the cost will fall squarely on the state governments.

They said field offices of the Veterans administration have been interpreting the "G.I. Bill of Rights" as meaning the government should pay only the customary student fee—and this amount, say the educators, is seldom more than a third of the cost of instruction.

Dr. Francis J. Brown, consultant of the American Council on Education said, one state university president declared that such a policy would "practically bankrupt" the university and the other colleges of that state.

The Veterans Administration is believed on the verge of announcing a policy, but wouldn't talk about it today.

and other public eating and drinking establishments.

A La Carte Items

Prices for a la carte items and full meals are set at the highest price which was charged for the same item or meal in the establishment during the base period.

Establishments which charged more than week-day prices for their Sunday and holiday meals may continue to do so. It is emphasized, however, that the Sunday prices may not exceed those charged on Sundays during the base period, and the holiday prices may not exceed 15 per cent more than the Sunday, April 4, 1943 prices. Special New Year's Eve prices are limited to those charged on New Year's Eve 1942.

Beverage ceiling prices, including those of alcoholic beverages are the same as those charged by each establishment during the base period, plus any taxes that legally can be passed on to customers.

JAPS PUTTING PRISONERS IN MANILA CAMPS

By RAY CRONIN
San Francisco, Aug. 8 (AP)—Indications that the Japanese Army in the Philippines is carrying out a year old plan to concentrate most American and other civilian prisoners in two internment camps reached the United States recently from Manila.

A Japanese-approved cablegram, received by a relative from an American boy formerly interned at Davao, southern Mindanao island, said he is in the Los Banos camp, 35 miles southeast of Manila.

Another message indicated the presence in the Manila Santo Tomas camp of a former Davao internee. About a year ago, prior to my repatriation from the Philippines, where I spent 21 months in the Santo Tomas camp, the Japanese were discussing a plan to concentrate civilian prisoners in the Manila and Los Banos camps. Earlier the occupants of camps at Cebu, Iloilo, Bacolod City and Naga had been brought to Santo Tomas from the southern islands in the holds of filthy ships.

Ignore Query
A Kodaki, Japanese career diplomat and chief of all civilian camps in the Philippines, never gave a satisfactory reply to my question as to why the internees were to be concentrated in one or two camps. Obviously the military police had ordered the concentration. One reason probably was to release soldier guards for other duties.

Four civilian camps were functioning in the Philippines last fall—Santo Tomas with a population of 4,000; Los Banos, 800; Holmes, in the Bicol mountains near Baguio, about 500; and Davao, about 300. The Santo Tomas figure was boosted recently by approximately 500 when the Japanese radio reported internment of all United Nations missionaries and religious workers.

Nothing has reached America, so far as I know, to indicate transfer of the Holmes camp internees.

Crowded Camps
If the 500 religious workers and the 300 Davao prisoners have been added to the Santo Tomas and Los Banos populations those camps must be crowded far beyond capacity.

Santo Tomas was jammed when the internee population reached 4,000. Living space in the separate dormitories for men and women and children was limited to six feet four inches by 32 inches per person—sufficient room for a cot. Some men were living in palm leaf shacks they constructed themselves. Los Banos could accommodate few newcomers. Other messages from Manila in recent weeks said personal packages sent to some internees by relatives in the United States were delivered to civilian prisoners. During the first 21 months of internment not a single package reached Santo Tomas from America.

England Attacked Again By Robots

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—German flying bomb attacks continued on London and the southern counties Monday. During the night the bombs came over at short intervals causing a few casualties.

The overnight bombardment capped a week-end of sporadic robot attacks which reached fairly heavy proportions Saturday night but tapered off during the daylight hours yesterday.

The Air Ministry announced 56 flying bomb storage depots in northern France had been destroyed and 44 heavily damaged in recent Allied heavy bomber assaults.

General Hyde, who arrived at the hospital with his wife three days ago, was stricken ill shortly after dinner Sunday.

GERMAN COURT CONVICTS 8 IN BOMBING PLOT

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Trial of eight high officers who were expelled from the German Army on a charge of complicity in the attempted assassination of Adolf Hitler has now been concluded, Berlin announced today, and the special court has set a "just punishment."

The broadcast, by the German agency DNB, did not disclose immediately what the sentences were. Four other officers, however, were executed July 20 on a charge of taking part in the plot and four additional accused officers committed suicide, the Germans have announced.

DNB said the eight former officers, all out of uniform, went to trial yesterday before the people's court of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler. Berlin previously had announced that a special "court of honor" expelled all eight from the Army.

Berlin gave this account: Three On Bench
The officers were accused of participation in the assassination attempt "in order to stir up revolt in Germany, to assume command of the Wehrmacht, to seize state authority and to conclude a dishonorable peace."

The court consisted of an Infantry general, a Berlin business man, a people's councillor and a municipal councillor. A Berlin baker and a civil engineer served as substitute judges. The jury were long red robes.

The officers were represented by eight defense councilors appointed by the state. When the chief of the defendants, former Field Marshal Edwin von Witzleben, gave the German salute, the president of the court declared, "the German salute may be given only by Germans who are men of honor."

Admit Charge
On trial with Witzleben were former Maj. Gen. Erich Hoepfner, former Maj. Gen. Steff, former Lt. Gen. von Hase, former Lt. Col. Bernhardt, former Capt. Friedrich Karl Klausner, former Lt. von Egen and former Lt. Count York von Wartenburg.

The proceedings were carried out in the senate of the people's court, highest German court. Dr. Roland Freisler was president and Chief Prosecutor Lautz headed the staff representing the Reich's case. Steff, first to be questioned, answered a simple "yes" when asked if he had been involved in assassination plans as early as the summer of 1943.

Steff's answers implicated his immediate senior, former Artillery General Wagner (reported by Berlin to have committed suicide after the plot's failure). Witzleben frankly admitted in court he had been "involved in this matter."

Leaders "No Good"
He admitted visiting former Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, another reported suicide, in February, 1943, at which they agreed that men heading the military strategy under Hitler were "no good" while "good ones" were wanted.

The president asked who would have been more fitted to head the military. Witzleben answered quietly: "We two—Beck and I."

England's buccaneer-explorer William Dampier gave New Britain Island its name because he thought its coastline resembled the English Channel's.

Refugees Settle At Fort Ontario

Some of the 933 refugees from occupied Europe walk about the grounds of their new home at Fort Ontario, Oswego, N. Y. These buildings are the mess halls in which the refugees will eat, since none of the individual quarters are equipped for cooking. The camp was prepared by the War Relocation Authority. As soon as possible, the government of the center will be turned over to the refugees themselves.

CONGRESSMEN FACE POST-WAR PAY PROBLEMS

By DON HYNDMAN
Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Senators lined up for formal debate today on the sharp issue of how far the Federal government should go in managing the country's return to peace.

Leaders agreed to take up first the hottest of all the demobilization controversies—Federal or state control of the multi-billion dollar program of unemployment compensation payments to displaced war workers and returning veterans.

The Senate Democratic steering committee gave the right of way to a bill by Senator George (D-Ga.) to leave control of rates and standards to the states, while bringing 2,000,000 Federal workers under the benefit program.

While this represented a preliminary advantage for the "states' rights" advocates, backers of the Murray-Kilgore bill outlining overall reconversion procedures, and establishing more liberal Federal compensation standards, were left free to offer their proposal as a substitute for the George measure at any point in the debate.

Favor George Bill
Most of the Republican Senators were publicly or privately committed to the George bill prior to today's session. On the States' rights side also were a number of southern Democrats. The Murray-Kilgore bill, on the other hand, has the united backing of organized labor spokesmen.

In an interview, Senator Murray (D-Mont.) called wholly exaggerated the estimate of Senator Beveridge (R-Ind.) that the Federal plan might cost the taxpayers almost $24,000,000,000 in two years of operation.

Senator George, on the other hand, connected the Murray-Kilgore bill's plan for Federally-financed vocational training for the "idle" government payment of transportation expenses of workers to new jobs, and compensation payments of $12 to $35 weekly, would pave the way for "a vast new Federal bureaucracy."

Two Hungarian Ministers Quit

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Berlin radio quoted a dispatch from Budapest today as saying that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, had dismissed Bela Imred, minister without portfolio, and two other cabinet members "at their own request."

The others dismissed were identified as Antal Kancser, minister of commerce and transportation, and Andor Jaross, home secretary. All three, however, were strongly identified with pro-Nazi elements in Hungary.

Urged To Store Wheat On Farms

Harrisburg, Aug. 8 (AP)—With every local and terminal elevator in the state filled with wheat, farmers have been advised by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency to store at home their record grain crop to take advantage of government commodity loans.

"Already local market prices have sunk to $1.49 per bushel, in some sections of the state," said Willis B. Berger, chief of the feed and grain section of the AAA in the state.

"Thus should not be true this year because of the wide demand for livestock feed. If farmers are able to store their crop in bins or granaries until space in terminal elevators is provided, the government loan guarantees will permit farmers to collect $1.57 for wheat graded U. S. No. 1, less the freight to these terminal elevators and proper handling charges."

GERMAN COURT CONVICTS 8 IN BOMBING PLOT

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Trial of eight high officers who were expelled from the German Army on a charge of complicity in the attempted assassination of Adolf Hitler has now been concluded, Berlin announced today, and the special court has set a "just punishment."

The broadcast, by the German agency DNB, did not disclose immediately what the sentences were. Four other officers, however, were executed July 20 on a charge of taking part in the plot and four additional accused officers committed suicide, the Germans have announced.

DNB said the eight former officers, all out of uniform, went to trial yesterday before the people's court of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler. Berlin previously had announced that a special "court of honor" expelled all eight from the Army.

Berlin gave this account:

Three On Bench

The officers were accused of participation in the assassination attempt "in order to stir up revolt in Germany, to assume command of the Wehrmacht, to seize state authority and to conclude a dishonorable peace."

The court consisted of an Infantry general, a Berlin business man, a people's councillor and a municipal councillor. A Berlin baker and a civil engineer served as substitute judges. The jury wore long red robes.

The officers were represented by eight defense counsellors appointed by the state.

When the chief of the defendants, former Field Marshal Edwin von Witzleben, gave the German salute the president of the court declared, "the German salute may be given only by Germans who are men of honor."

Admit Charge

On trial with Witzleben were former Maj. Gen. Erich Hoepfner, former Maj. Gen. Stieff, former Lt. Gen. von Hase, former Lt. Col. Bernhardt, former Capt. Friedrich Karl Klausung, former Lt. von Hegen and former Lt. Count Yorck von Wartenburg.

The proceedings were carried out in the senate of the people's court, highest German court. Dr. Roland Freisler was president and Chief Prosecutor Lautz headed the staff representing the Reich's case. Stieff, first to be questioned, answered a simple "yes" when asked if he had been involved in assassination plans as early as the summer of 1943.

Stieff's answers implicated his immediate senior, former Artillery General Wagner (reported by Berlin to have committed suicide after the plot's failure).

Witzleben frankly admitted in court he had been "involved in this matter."

Leaders "No Good"

He admitted visiting former Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, another reported suicide, in February, 1943, at which they agreed that men heading the military strategy under Hitler were "no good" while "good ones" were eliminated.

The president asked who would have been more fitted to head the military.

Witzleben answered quietly: "We two—Beck and I."

England's buccaneer-explorer William Dampier gave New Britain Island its name because he thought its coastline resembled the English Channel's.

CONGRESSMEN FACE POST-WAR PAY PROBLEMS

By DON HYNDMAN

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Senators lined up for formal debate today on the sharp issue of how far the Federal government should go in managing the country's return to peace.

Leaders agreed to take up first the hottest of all the demobilization controversies—Federal or state control of the multi-billion dollar program of unemployment compensation payments to displaced war workers and returning veterans.

The Senate's Democratic steering committee gave the right of way to a bill by Senator George (D-Ga.) to leave control of rates and standards to the states, while bringing 2,000,000 Federal workers under the benefit program.

While this represented a preliminary advantage for the "states' rights" advocates, backers of the Murray-Kilgore bill outlining overall reconversion procedures, and establishing more liberal Federal compensation standards, were left free to offer their proposal as a substitute for the George measure at any point in the debate.

Favor George Bill

Most of the Republican Senators were publicly or privately committed to the George bill prior to today's session. On the States' rights side also were a number of southern Democrats. The Murray-Kilgore bill, on the other hand, has the united backing of organized labor spokesmen.

In an interview, Senator Murray (D-Mont.) called "wholly exaggerated" the estimate of Senator Revercomb (R-W. Va.) that the Federal plan might cost the taxpayers almost $24,000,000,000 in two years of operation.

Senator George, on the other hand, contended the Murray-Kilgore bill's plan for Federally-financed vocational training for the idle, government payment of transportation expenses of workers to new jobs, and compensation payments of $12 to $35 weekly, would pave the way for "a vast new Federal bureaucracy."

Two Hungarian Ministers Quit

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—The British radio quoted a dispatch from Budapest today as saying that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, had dismissed Bela Imredy, minister without portfolio, and two other cabinet members "at their own request."

The others dismissed were identified as Antal Kunder, minister of commerce and transportation, and Andor Jaross, home secretary.

The significance of the development was not immediately apparent.

All three, however, were strongly identified with pro-Nazi elements in Hungary.

Urged To Store Wheat On Farms

Harrisburg, Aug. 8 (AP)—With every local and terminal elevator in the state filled with wheat, farmers have been advised by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency to store at home their record grain crop to take advantage of government commodity loans.

"Already local market prices have sunk to $1.40 per bushel in some sections of the state," said Willis B. Bergey, chief of the feed and grain section of the AAA in the state.

"This should not be true this year because of the wide demand for livestock feed. If farmers are able to store their crop in bins or granaries until space in terminal elevators is provided, the government loan guarantees will permit farmers to collect $1.67 for wheat graded U. S. No. 1, less the freight to these terminal elevators and proper handling charges."

JAPS PUTTING PRISONERS IN MANILA CAMPS

By RAY CRONIN

San Francisco, Aug. 8 (AP)—Indications that the Japanese Army in the Philippines is carrying out a year old plan to concentrate most American and other civilian prisoners in two internment camps reached the United States recently from Manila.

A Japanese-approved cablegram, received by a relative from an American boy formerly interned at Davao, southern Mindanao island, said he is in the Los Banos camp, 35 miles southeast of Manila.

Another message indicated the presence in the Manila Santo Tomas camp of a former Davao internee.

About a year ago, prior to my repatriation from the Philippines where I spent 21 months in the Santo Tomas camp, the Japanese were discussing a plan to concentrate civilian prisoners in the Manila and Los Banos camps. Earlier the occupants of camps at Cebu, Iloilo, Bacolod City and Naga had been brought to Santo Tomas from the southern islands in the holds of filthy ships.

Ignore Query

A. Kodaki, Japanese career diplomat and chief of all civilian camps in the Philippines; never gave a satisfactory reply to my question as to why the internees were to be concentrated in one or two camps. Obviously the military police had ordered the concentration. One reason probably was to release soldier guards for other duties.

Four civilian camps were functioning in the Philippines last fall—Santo Tomas with a population of 4,000; Los Banos, 600; Holmes, in the Bontoc mountains near Baguio, about 500; and Davao, about 300.

The Santo Tomas figure was boosted recently by approximately 500 when the Japanese radio reported internment of all United Nations missionaries and religious workers.

Nothing has reached America, so far as I know, to indicate transfer of the Holmes camp internees.

Crowded Camps

If the 500 religious workers and the 300 Davao prisoners have been added to the Santo Tomas and Los Banos populations those camps must be crowded far beyond capacity.

Santo Tomas was jammed when the internee population reached 4,000. Living space in the separate dormitories for men and women and children was limited to six feet four inches by 32 inches per person—sufficient room for a cot. Some men were living in palm leaf shacks they constructed themselves. Los Banos could accommodate few newcomers.

Other messages from Manila in recent weeks said personal packages sent to some internees by relatives in the United States, were delivered to civilian prisoners. During the first 21 months of internment not a single package reached Santo Tomas from America.

England Attacked Again By Robots

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Germans flying bomb attacks continued on London and the southern counties Monday. During the night the bombs came over at short intervals causing a few casualties.

The overnight bombardment capped a week-end of sporadic robot attacks which reached fairly heavy proportions Saturday night but tapered off during the daylight hours yesterday.

The Air Ministry announced 56 flying bomb storage depots in northern France had been destroyed and 44 heavily damaged in recent Allied heavy bomber assaults.

The women who wouldn't sit and wait

IT ISN'T EASY to say "good-bye" to the family, and to friends, and to nice long week ends.

It may not be natural for a woman to salute and stand at attention and say "Yes, sir"...

But ask any Wac if she'd change places with anyone in the world—and the answer would be "No!"

For deep down inside, every Wac knows the enormous satisfaction of being truly useful at a time of critical need.

The Wac spirit is a gallant spirit. The spirit of women who would rather be in the war, than sitting and waiting for it to end.

The Wac pride is an honest pride. In a job well done. In being part of the Army of the U. S.

You really have to hand it to the women of the WAC....

ABOUT ROSES
I wish I knew what pleases roses best;
To deck a woman in rich raiment dressed
Or breathe a word of sorrow for the dead
Or live and die a garden flower instead.

If roses think (I wonder if they do),
Strive they to be the fairest, shape and hue,
Or would they be completely satisfied
To be some humble gardener's source of pride?

Some cut them in the bud! Some choose to wait
To gather them full-bloom, and that's too late.
Some keep them for their own! Some, better still,
Use them to carry comfort to the ill.

Roses are silent. Not a word they say
Of praise or censure, use them as we may.
But off, although their secrets stay unguessed,
I wish I knew what pleases roses best.

Today's Talk

A REFUGE OF SILENCE

Nothing consoles like the silence of Nature, which is forever giving forth its voice from every quarter of its realm. Here at "Weska-wenak" I listen to endless voices, yet in a universal language that I can understand, my bed of pansies talk to me. The age-old rocky shores of this island, the whisperings of the pines and hemlocks, the wash of the clean waves along the shore, the beauty of the lowering day, with its colorful sunsets each has its appeal.

I take refuge here for a few brief weeks for the purpose of reflection and meditation, and to clarify my outlook upon life and its problems and mysteries.

I know every bird by name that associates with me here. Nearly every morning I hear the strange call of a great bald eagle that hovers about one of these islands, and I wonder what his purpose is. A lonely loon inhabits the waters near where I take my boat to the village for my mail each morning. I wonder "where its partner is? Can he be that it has met with misfortune? There was a loon nest with two eggs in it on a neighboring island across the lake, but by some mishap one egg was broken and the mother loon never returned. How did it happen? There is tragedy in nature, as well as in human life.

There are two red squirrels here that follow me about the island like tiny dogs, unafraid, and if I feed them a peanut they scold! But they trust me, and climb all over me. There are many other of their kind here, but they are shy. Why do these two put so much trust in me? How good it is to know that with a world all at war, with people killing and destroying so much that is precious in life, Nature lives on, does its chores, rehabilitates itself, and reminds us that nothing is ever lost in its realm. It keeps renewing itself as well. All over this island I note new trees to take the place of those that gradually are smothered out, or that die from some lack. But great memories are on into a great age.

Silence around a thousand times a day, and with foot-paths are well-trodden mowed paths, give me an opportunity to think constructively, and to evaluate life. No noisy city streets, or scrambling multitudes cut for gain, trouble me here. It is a refuge of silence.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Live—The Great Purpose."

HITLERITES ARE QUITTING SOUTH ATLANTIC WALL

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Irun, Spain, Aug. 4 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's once-vaunted Atlantic wall for more than 100 miles from the Spanish frontier north through Bordeaux has been virtually abandoned and is manned by only a handful of over-aged German railroad troops, advices from France said today.

These Nazi fortifications have been outflanked to the north by the swift progress of American troops towards Brittany and eastward towards Paris in much the same way as the Maginot line was outflanked when the Germans broke through Belgium in 1940.

With their communications seriously menaced, the Germans were said to have begun a full scale evacuation of their forces in southwestern France, leaving only a few gendarmes and gendarmes to cover the French-Spanish frontier.

German police at the Hendaye bridge maintained that the evacuation was a "purely temporary withdrawal," necessitated by the reassignment of border region forces following the shift of certain SS (elite guards) units of the frontier garrison toward the Loire river.

Expect All To Leave
Frenchmen living on the Spanish side of the frontier said, however, they are convinced the Nazi High Command is abandoning southwestern France, and many believe they will awake some morning soon and find the last German gone.

Regular German army forces moved out of the region south of Bayonne over a week ago, leaving SS units behind. The SS forces in turn began leaving Sunday night.

The German railroad troops left behind to guard the coast were reported loading the last of the Nazis' movable artillery aboard flat cars at Hendaye, Bayonne and Biarritz. To reach the German forces to the north these guns and other supplies will have to run the gauntlet of sabotaged rail lines.

Although most of the German forces called out of southwestern France were rushed north to Bordeaux and La Rochelle, it was reported some units marched by road across southern France toward Montpellier and the Rhone river valley.

MEDFORD GROCER EXPIRES SUNDAY

Former State Senator J. David Balie, 66, president of the Medford Grocery company, and manager of that nationally-known country store for over half a century, passed away at 6 o'clock Sunday morning in Union Memorial hospital, Baltimore, where he had been taken several days following an injury to his hip suffered in a fall at his home in Medford.

He attended the public schools until he was twelve years of age and later took a course at Eaton Burnett's Business college at Baltimore. At 12 he started in clerking in the store of his uncle, David Englar, Jr., at Medford and after a few years as assistant he was given management of the store which he developed through consistent advertising and good business practice into an unusual institution for a community of the size of Medford.

In addition to being head of the Medford Grocery company, Mr. Balie was president of the New Windsor State bank, a member of the board of directors of the Potomac Edison Light and Power company, a member of the board of the Montgomery County Mutual Fire Insurance company of Sandy Springs, a member of the board of the Maryland School for the Deaf at Frederick and president of the Carroll County Historical society since its organization in 1939. He also had served as treasurer and president of the board of trustees of the former Blue Ridge college.

Funeral services at 3 p. m. at the late home, with Dr. Fred G. Halliway, president of Western Maryland college, officiating. Burial was made in Meadow Branch cemetery. Members of the Medford Store staff served as pallbearers.

Ex-Movie Actress To Be In York With WAVES' Board

WAVE Seaman, first class, Joan Mortimer, formerly of the movies, will accompany the WAVE Enlistment Travel board when it visits York Thursday of this week. She will remain with the unit through August 16. She will assist in the WAVE interviews of prospective enlistees during the forthcoming drive for recruits.

In addition to Seaman Mortimer, there will be WAVE interviewers and Navy medical personnel to assist the girls through the application procedure. All girls are urged to bring a birth certificate, or other evidence of citizenship with them.

Joan Mortimer's home is in New Hope, Pa. She attended the Doylestown high school and began her professional theatre training at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York city. She then went to Hollywood and was successful in obtaining the part of understudy in a company playing "Junior Miss" there. Her big chance came one night when the leading lady of that production was ill and Joan stepped in to do the part.

Movie scouts saw her performance and were so impressed with her ability that she was given screen tests and a short contract with Paramount. Lady Luck again stopped in and Joan was cast in the leading role of a Henry Aldrich picture. And following the release of that picture she was given a seven-year contract with the studio.

Miss Mortimer was subsequently cast as the leading lady in three Henry Aldrich pictures and was working on the fourth when she joined the Navy WAVES.

Her contract with Paramount would ultimately have paid her $1,250 per week; but her intense desire to "do something more vital to the war effort" caused her to reject work in the motion picture industry and to join the WAVES. She was sent to Hunter college for her basic Navy training and requested duties in recruiting. She was assigned to the Philadelphia WAVE Enlistment Headquarters.

Miss Mortimer will be available for interviews regarding service in the WAVES during the visit of the Travel Board to York for all girls interested in joining the Navy WAVES.

NEIGHBORS GROWL

New York (AP)—Nearby residents declare that when the "world's finest doghouse," a marble-floored former public bath, was converted into an A.S.P.C.A. shelter an important item was overlooked—soundproofing. Yesterday 150 wailing women complained in Bronx magistrate's court that the neighborhood hasn't had a good night's sleep since the dogs began to bark after the shelter was opened last July 19.

Naval Air Transport Service crafts are now flying about 3,600,000 plane miles each month.

German Aircraft Factory Bombed

Moscow, Aug. 4 (AP)—American heavy bombers from England with Mustang escorts attacked a German aircraft factory Sunday at Rahnmet, 10 miles northwest of the Polish port of Gdynia, and landed on Russian bases without loss.

Crews from the Eighth Air Force flight reported excellent bombing results and said the objectives were covered by bursts. Flames and smoke spouted upward as the group flew on toward Russia.

Anti-aircraft fire was heavy at some points along the long route, but enemy fighters were encountered only in weak strength.

The attack was the 20th operation in which American planes have used Russian bases of the Eastern Command. The first shuttle bombers landed in the Soviet Union June 2.

Gdynia, a city of 113,000, lies at the north end of the Polish corridor and some of the first shells of this war fell there.

PLAN CUTTING PAYROLL OF U.S. AFTER VICTORY

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY
Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Dropping of 2,000,000 civilians from the Federal payroll within a year after the war ends was foreseen today by Chairman Ramspeck (D-Ga.) of the House Civil Service committee.

Ramspeck's prediction was made in connection with the announcement yesterday of the order in which employees will be discharged as reductions become necessary.

The Georgian said the civilian rolls now number 2,908,912. He estimated that postwar cuts will bring the total down to about 900,000. The 270,057 Federal employees in Washington, he believes will be cut in half.

He expressed the opinion that government workers should be "mustered-out" of war jobs under the same severance pay and unemployment insurance benefits as the government provides for workers in war plants.

Order of Cuts

The commission said cuts, when they become necessary, would be made in this order:

1) Those recalled from retirement and those who have commenced working in wartime beyond the involuntary retirement age;

2) Temporary employees, serving under appointments limited to one year or less;

3) "Transitory" employees including those whose appointments are for the duration of the war and six months thereafter.

4) "Career" employees with unlimited appointments—the last group to be reached. These generally have a classified (competitive) status or have attained permanency of tenure.

In the first two categories, non-veterans must be laid off before veterans. Within the non-veteran and veteran groups less efficient employees must go first. Then, length of service will be the determining factor.

Just Folks

ABOUT ROSES
I wish I knew what pleases roses best:

To deck a woman in rich raiment dressed
Or breathe a word of sorrow for the dead
Or live and die a garden flower instead.

If roses think (I wonder if they do),
Strive they to be the fairest, shape and hue,
Or would they be completely satisfied
To be some humble gardener's source of pride?

Some cut them in the bud! Some choose to wait
To gather them full-bloom, and that's too late.
Some keep them for their own; Some, better still,
Use them to carry comfort to the ill.

Roses are silent. Not a word they say
Of praise or censure, use them as we may.
But oft, although their secrets stay unguessed,
I wish I knew what pleases roses best.

Today's Talk

A REFUGE OF SILENCE

Nothing consoles like the silence of Nature, which is forever giving forth its voice from every quarter of its realm. Here at "Weskanawak" I listen to endless voices, yet in a universal language that I can understand. My bed of pansies talk to me. The age-old rocky shores of this island, the whisperings of the pines and hemlocks, the wash of the clean waves along the shore, the beauty of the lowering day, with its colorful sunsets each has its appeal.

I take refuge here for a few brief weeks for the purpose of reflection and meditation, and to clarify my outlook upon life and its problems and mysteries.

I know every bird by name that associates with me here. Nearly every morning I hear the strange call of a great bald eagle that hovers about one of these islands, and I wonder what his purpose is. A lonely loon inhabits the waters near where I take my boat to the village for my mail each morning. I wonder where its partner is? Can it be that it has met with misfortune? There was a loon nest with two eggs in it on a neighboring island across the lake, but by some mishap one egg was broken and the mother loon never returned. How did it happen? There is tragedy in nature, as well as in human life.

There are two red squirrels here that follow me about the island like tiny dogs, unafraid, and if I feed them a peanut they scold! But they trust me, and climb all over me. There are many other of their kind here, but they are shy. Why do these two put so much trust in me?

How good it is to know that with a world at war, with people killing and destroying so much that is precious in life, Nature lives on, does its chores, rehabilitates itself, and reminds us that nothing is ever lost in its realm. It keeps renewing itself as well. All over this island I note new trees to take the place of those that gradually are smothered out, or that die from some lack. But great hemlocks live on—into a great age.

Silence among a thousand trees or so, and with foot-paths over well-trodden mossy ways, gives one an opportunity to think constructively and to evaluate life. No noisy city streets, or scrambling multitudes out for gain, trouble one here. It is a refuge of silence.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Live—The Great Purpose."

Ex-Movie Actress To Be In York With WAVES' Board

WAVE Seaman, first class, Joan Mortimer, formerly of the movies, will accompany the WAVE Enlistment Travel board when it visits York Thursday of this week. She will remain with the unit through August 16. She will assist in the WAVE interviews of prospective enlistees during the forthcoming drive for recruits.

In addition to Seaman Mortimer, there will be WAVE interviewers and Navy medical personnel to assist the girls through the application procedure. All girls are urged to bring a birth certificate, or other evidence of citizenship with them.

Joan Mortimer's home is in New Hope, Pa. She attended the Doylestown high school and began her professional theatre training at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York city. Movie scouts saw her performance and were so impressed with her ability that she was given screen tests and a short contract with Paramount. Lady Luck again stopped in and Joan was cast in the leading role of a Henry Aldrich picture. And following the release of that picture she was given a seven-year contract with the studio. Miss Mortimer was subsequently cast as the leading lady in three Henry Aldrich pictures and was working on the fourth when she joined the Navy WAVES.

Her contract with Paramount would ultimately have paid her $1,250 per week; but her intense desire to "do something more vital to the war effort" caused her to reject work in the motion picture industry and to join the WAVES. She was sent to Hunter college for her basic Navy training and requested duties in recruiting. She was assigned to the Philadelphia WAVE Enlistment Headquarters.

Miss Mortimer will be available for interviews regarding service in the WAVES during the visit of the Travel Board to York for all girls interested in joining the Navy WAVES.

PLAN CUTTING PAYROLL OF U.S. AFTER VICTORY

ABOUT ROSES

I wish I knew what pleases roses best;

To deck a woman in rich raiment dressed

Or breathe a word of sorrow for the dead

Or live and die a garden flower instead.

If roses think (I wonder if they do),

Strive they to be the fairest, shape and hue,

Or would they be completely satisfied

To be some humble gardener's source of pride?

Some cut them in the bud! Some choose to wait

To gather them full-bloom, and that's too late.

Some keep them for their own! Some, better still,

Use them to carry comfort to the ill.

Roses are silent. Not a word they say

Of praise or censure, use them as we may.

But oft, although their secrets stay unguessed,

I wish I knew what pleases roses best.

Today's Talk

A REFUGE OF SILENCE

Nothing consoles like the silence of Nature, which is forever giving forth its voice from every quarter of its realm. Here at "Weekawenak" I listen to endless voices, yet in a universal language that I can understand, my bed of pansies talk to me. The age-old rocky shores of this island, the whisperings of the pines and hemlocks, the wash of the clean waves along the shore, the beauty of the lowering day, with its colorful sunsets each has its appeal.

I take refuge here for a few brief weeks for the purpose of reflection and meditation, and to clarify my outlook upon life and its problems and mysteries.

I know every bird by name that associates with me here. Nearly every morning I hear the strange call of a great bald eagle that hovers about one of these islands, and I wonder what his purpose is. A lonely loon inhabits the waters near where I take my boat to the village for my mail each morning. I wonder where its partner is? Can it be that it has met with misfortune? There was a loon nest with two eggs in it on a neighboring island across the lake, but by some mishap one egg was broken and the mother loon never returned. How did it happen? There is tragedy in nature, as well as in human life.

There are two red squirrels here that follow me about the island like tiny dogs, unafraid, and if I feed them a peanut they scold! But they trust me, and climb all over me. There are many other of their kind here, but they are shy. Why do these two put so much trust in me?

How good it is to know that with a world all at war, with people killing and destroying so much that is precious in life, Nature lives on, does its chores, rehabilitates itself, and reminds us that nothing is ever lost in its realm. It keeps renewing itself as well. All over this island I note new trees to take the place of those that gradually are smothered out, or that die from some lack. But great hemlocks live on—into a great age.

Silence among a thousand trees or so, and with foot-paths over well-trodden moccasies, gives one an opportunity to think constructively and to evaluate life. No noisy city streets, or scrambling multitudes out for gain, trouble one here. It is a refuge of silence.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Live—The Great Purpose."

HITLERITES ARE QUITTING SOUTH ATLANTIC WALL

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

Irun, Spain, Aug. 8 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's once-vaunted Atlantic wall for more than 100 miles from the Spanish frontier north through Bordeaux has been virtually abandoned and is manned by only a handful of over-aged German railroad troops, advices from France said today.

These Nazi fortifications have been outflanked to the north by the swift progress of American troops through Brittany and eastward towards Paris in much the same way as the Maginot line was outflanked when the Germans broke through Belgium in 1940.

With their communications seriously menaced, the Germans were said to have begun a full scale evacuation of their forces in southwestern France, leaving only a few gendarmes and gendarmes to cover the French-Spanish frontier.

German police at the Hendaye bridge maintained that the evacuation was a "purely temporary withdrawal," necessitated by the reassignment of border region forces following the shift of certain SS (elite guards) units of the frontier garrison toward the Loire river.

Expect All To Leave

Frenchmen living on the Spanish side of the frontier said, however, they are convinced the Nazi High Command is abandoning southwestern France, and many believe they will awake some morning soon and find the last German gone.

Regular German army forces moved out of the region south of Bayonne over a week ago, leaving SS units behind. The SS forces in turn began leaving Sunday night.

The German railroad troops left behind to guard the coast were reported loading the last of the Nazis' movable artillery aboard flat cars at Hendaye, Bayonne and Biarritz. To reach the German forces to the north these guns and other supplies will have to run the gauntlet of sabotaged rail lines.

Although most of the German forces called out of southwestern France were rushed north to Bordeaux and La Rochelle, it was reported some units marched by road across southern France toward Montpellier and the Rhone river valley.

MEDFORD GROCER EXPIRES SUNDAY

Former State Senator J. David Baile, 66, president of the Medford Grocery company, and manager of that nationally-known country store for over half a century, passed away at 6 o'clock Sunday morning in Union Memorial hospital, Baltimore, where he had been taken several days following an injury to his hip suffered in a fall at his home in Medford.

He attended the public schools until he was twelve years of age and later took a course at Eaton Burnett's Business college at Baltimore. At 12 he started in clerking in the store of his uncle, David Englar, Jr., at Medford and after a few years as assistant he was given management of the store which he developed through consistent advertising and good business practice into an unusual institution for a community of the size of Medford.

In addition to being head of the Medford Grocery company, Mr. Baile was president of the New Windsor State bank, a member of the board of directors of the Potomac Edison Light and Power company, a member of the board of the Montgomery County Mutual Fire Insurance company of Sandy Springs, a member of the board of the Maryland School for the Deaf at Frederick, and president of the Carroll County Historical society since its organization in 1939. He also had served as treasurer and president of the board of trustees of the former Blue Ridge college.

Funeral services at 3 p. m., at the late home, with Dr. Fred G. Hallows, president of Western Maryland college, officiating. Burial was made in Meadow Branch cemetery. Members of the Medford Store staff served as pallbearers.

Ex-Movie Actress To Be In York With WAVES' Board

WAVE Seaman, first class, Joan Mortimer, formerly of the movies, will accompany the WAVE Enlistment Travel board when it visits York Thursday of this week. She will remain with the unit through August 16. She will assist in the WAVE interviews of prospective enlistees during the forthcoming drive for recruits.

In addition to Seaman Mortimer, there will be WAVE interviewers and Navy medical personnel to assist the girls through the application procedure. All girls are urged to bring a birth certificate, or other evidence of citizenship with them.

Joan Mortimer's home is in New Hope, Pa. She attended the Doylestown high school and began her professional theatre training at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York city. She then went to Hollywood and was successful in obtaining the part of understudy in a company playing "Junior Miss" there. Her big chance came one night when the leading lady of that production was ill and Joan stepped in to do the part.

Movie scouts saw her performance and were so impressed with her ability that she was given screen tests and a short contract with Paramount. Lady Luck again stopped in and Joan was cast in the leading role of a Henry Aldrich picture. And following the release of that picture she was given a seven-year contract with the studio.

Miss Mortimer was subsequently cast as the leading lady in three Henry Aldrich pictures and was working on the fourth when she joined the Navy WAVES.

Her contract with Paramount would ultimately have paid her $1,250 per week; but her intense desire to "do something more vital to the war effort" caused her to reject work in the motion picture industry and to join the WAVES.

She was sent to Hunter college for her basic Navy training and requested duties in recruiting. She was assigned to the Philadelphia WAVE Enlistment Headquarters.

Miss Mortimer will be available for interviews regarding service in the WAVES during the visit of the Travel Board to York for all girls interested in joining the Navy WAVES.

NEIGHBORS GROWL

New York (AP)—Nearby residents declare that when the "world's finest doghouse," a marble-floored former public bath, was converted into an A.S.P.C.A. shelter an important item was overlooked—soundproofing. Yesterday 150 wrathful women complained in Bronx magistrate's court that the neighborhood hasn't had a good night's sleep since the dogs began to bark after the shelter was opened last July 19.

Naval Air Transport Service crafts are now flying about 3,600,000 plane miles each month.

German Aircraft Factory Bombed

Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—American heavy bombers from England with Mustang escorts attacked a German aircraft factory Sunday at Rahmel, 10 miles northwest of the Polish port of Gdynia, and landed on Russian bases without loss.

Crews from the Eighth Air Force flight reported excellent bombing results and said the objectives were covered by bursts. Flames and smoke spouted upward as the group flew on toward Russia.

Anti-aircraft fire was heavy at some points along the long route, but enemy fighters were encountered only in weak strength.

The attack was the 20th operation in which American planes have used Russian bases of the Eastern Command. The first shuttle bombers landed in the Soviet Union June 2.

Gdynia, a city of 113,000, lies at the north end of the Polish corridor and some of the first shells of this war fell there.

PLAN CUTTING PAYROLL OF U.S. AFTER VICTORY

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Dropping of 2,000,000 civilians from the Federal payroll within a year after the war ends was foreseen today by Chairman Ramspeck (D-Ga.) of the House Civil Service committee.

Ramspeck's prediction was made in connection with the announcement yesterday of the order in which employees will be discharged as reductions become necessary.

The Georgian said the civilian rolls now number 2,908,912. He estimated that postwar cuts will bring the total down to about 900,000. The 270,057 Federal employees in Washington, he believes will be cut in half.

He expressed the opinion that government workers should be "mustered-out" of war jobs under the same severance pay and unemployment insurance benefits as the government provides for workers in war plants.

Order of Cuts

The commission said cuts, when they become necessary, would be made in this order:

1)—Those recalled from retirement and those who have continued working in wartime beyond the involuntary retirement age;

2)—Temporary employees, serving under appointments limited to one year or less;

3)—"Transitory" employees including those whose appointments are for the duration of the war and six months thereafter;

4)—"Career" employees with unlimited appointments—the last group to be reached. These generally have a classified (competitive) status or have attained permanency of tenure.

In the first two categories, non-veterans must be laid off before veterans. Within the non-veteran and veteran groups less efficient employees must go first. Then, length of service will be the determining factor.

Drills For Water But Gets Oil

Greece City, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—Here's Cooney Ball's formula for success: Drill a water well that produces oil.

That's exactly what happened when Ball sank a 65-foot water well on his Butler county farm last week. First producing gas, the well began to gush forth oil yesterday at the rate of a barrel an hour.

With oil selling at $3.40 a barrel, Ball's "water well" promises to bring in approximately $80 daily.

Oilmen, mystified by the flow which comes from none of the familiar sands, attributed it to a "water push."

Sandlotters Play "Audition Game"

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sandlot baseball players with big league aspirations will play an "audition game" at Shibe park next Tuesday under the eyes of Connie Mack, athletic scouts and General Manager Herb Pennock of the Phillies.

The teams will be formed from the all-stars of the Connie Mack Baseball conference, a teen-age league sponsored by the Sandlot Sports association. One nine will be designated the "Athletics," the other the "Phillies."

Albany Hurler Wins 19th Game

(By The Associated Press) Albany Senators had closed to within two games and a half of the Eastern league lead today and Pitcher Leonard Gilmore was only one game short of becoming the circuit's first 20-game winner of the season.

The onrushing Senators blasted the Utica Blue Sox, 15-5, last night to cut a full game from the advantage held by the leading Hartford Laurels, who were nosed out by the Binghamton Triplets, 6-5.

Other scheduled games were rained out.

Bids Fair To Win Track Money Honor

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Twilight Tear, a fast slip of a miss who has become the darling of the turf, goes after her 12th straight victory and a new all-time money winning record for Calumet farm at Belmont Park today.

A 1-20 choice in the overnight odds the daughter of Bull Lea and Lady Lark seems a cinch to snare the first Alabama stakes prize of $12,500 and boost the Calumet earnings to $481,900, a new mark.

CUPID'S CASAWAY

by MARTHA PREWITT

YESTERDAY: A girlhood spent cruising the Caribbean on her explorer-father's old schooner had not prepared Lucky for high society. Nevertheless she decided to accept her Uncle Frank's invitation to visit his palatial city home. She thought that there she might find out more of a glamorous world she had only glimpsed. But the fashionable crowd at Uncle Frank's made the girl feel like a crude outsider—all except Thad. He was red-haired, handsome and thoughtful. But it didn't take Lucky long to see that she could never compete with luxury-loving, glamorous Di—her silk-clad cousin—whose veiled hostility made the schooner girl feel awkward and alone. Arriving bedraggled and afraid, Lucky heard a butler announce, "Dinner is served," after introductions had been made.

Chapter 3

They went out and down a long hall to the dining room. Lucky stopped in the doorway caught up from her confusion by delight. A hidden beam highlighted a low bowl in the center of the white cloth and gleaming silver. The bowl held soft sprays of mimosa, tiny yellow clouds of it, punctuated at intervals by the sharp beauty of purple iris. The fragile lavender goblets were a murmuring echo of the iris.

"They're beautiful," Lucky whispered.

Ben had stopped beside her. "Lovely, yes. But artificial."

"They certainly are not!" It had been a trying evening for Aunt Diane. "They came from Narwell's, the best florist in—"

Ben made a deprecatory gesture. "You misunderstood, Mrs. Marshall. I didn't speak literally. I was comparing it to the blue reaches of the Caribbean. I'll—his glance didn't quite reach Mary's face—"we'll have to go there some time. To paint."

He held out Lucky's chair for her. She twisted to look up at him. "Really? Because we'd love to have you on Blue Dolphin. Cappy and I get lonely when Father's away."

"I wasn't asking for an invitation!" The color had come again under his high thin cheekbones.

Lucky, looked around the table trying to learn what she'd done now. Thad caught her eye. His own twinkled encouragement. He said, "It's all right. Ben was just surprised. You see, Lucky—her heart warmed at the easy way he used her name—"most people we know with boats are as cagey with bids aboard as politicians with political plums."

"But Cappy and I love company! It isn't luxurious, of course," she added truthfully.

May said, "The rougher the better. I was brought up in the rugged West. How about you, Di? Are you joining this cruise?"

Under the railway, Lucky caught again that flicker of meaning, but Di was apparently unaware of it. She smiled at May. "Sorry, I can't go," she took up the banter. "Nothing under two hundred feet for me. I'm not built to take it." Her eyes dropped ever so slightly to May's too-solid waist line. May's mouth tightened at the corners. But Di hadn't meant that, Lucky was sure.

Uncle Frank had to join in. "Is this a private cruise or can anybody come? I'm expecting to be in Miami in June." He turned to Thad. "We've got that utility case coming up, remember?"

Thad nodded. "You'll go off on the cruise and leave me the case," he accused, his voice affectionate. "Frank! You'll do nothing of the sort!" Aunt Diane never caught on. "You can't even swim!"

Uncle Frank chuckled. "Already Lucky liked her uncle. Aunt Diane? She didn't know. She glanced at Di. Such loveliness—you couldn't help adoring it, even while you envied it."

At dinner everything these people said, even with Thad and May's seemingly careless efforts to include her, excluded her. Horse races—she'd never been to one. Polo—a word in the papers. Winter sports—she'd never seen snow. Swing music—she didn't understand actually the words they used. Dancing—she couldn't even waltz!

She began to realize, with growing heartbeat, how much a stranger she was among them. A child of nature; an oddity! She belonged in the islands. She shouldn't have come.

Uncle Frank was talking to her. "... dance Saturday night. In your honor..."

"Oh, no!" Shock was on her face. But Uncle Frank was beaming around the table. "A dance in Lucky's honor, with all the trimmings!"

He looked at her with such pleasure, she couldn't bring herself to protest. But inside she felt dizzy with apprehension.

"I'll be so awkward and hopeless. They'll laugh at me, these people..."

And I can't dance. He won't do it when he knows that. I'll tell him later. But if he still wants to—

Her mouth had a dry, acid taste, but she knew, if she had to, she could live through this as she did the time she broke her arm and it took a day to get to the doctor.

Di's voice was going on with plans for the dance "... have Ken King's Kingaroos. Don't you think we like them the best of any band in town?" She appealed to Thad.

In spite of her sick dread, Lucky's ear picked up that "we." It stood out. Cappy'd always said she was "part Injun" the way she caught people's moods and meanings so quickly.

Thad said, "Yes. Remember how hot they were out at the Daltons' rumpus? Gave! Didn't they?"

Lucky's tortured eyes went to Di's face. She was laughing up at Thad, her head thrown back, her white throat rippling softly with her laughter. Were they in love? Di was so beautiful. And Thad? He was kind. Lucky'd seen that. And handsome. And—something more. She stole another glance at him. Magnetic? Wasn't that the word in books? A sigh, hardly more than a deeper breath, expanded in her.

After that she was more aware of those two. Through the long miserable evening while she watched the other four play bridge, she saw how often Di's eyes sought Thad's; heard Thad's quick defense of Di's play when May pointed out an error in judgment; heard, later, the murmuring of their voices by the door as Thad said goodnight.

Ben had stopped beside her. "Lovely, yes. But artificial."

"They certainly are not!" It had been a trying evening for Aunt Diane. "They came from Narwell's, the best florist in—"

Ben made a deprecatory gesture. "You misunderstood, Mrs. Marshall. I didn't speak literally. I was comparing it to the blue reaches of the Caribbean. I'll—his glance didn't quite reach Mary's face—"we'll have to go there some time. To paint." He held out Lucky's chair for her.

She twisted to look up at him. "Really? Because we'd love to have you on Blue Dolphin. Cappy and I get lonely when Father's away."

"I wasn't asking for an invitation!" The color had come again under his high thin cheekbones.

Lucky, looked around the table trying to learn what she'd done now. Thad caught her eye. His own twinkled encouragement. He said, "It's all right. Ben was just surprised. You see, Lucky—her heart warmed at the easy way he used her name. "—most people we know with boats are as cagey with bids aboard as politicians with political plums."

"But Cappy and I love company! It isn't luxurious, of course," she added truthfully.

May said, "The rougher the better. I was brought up in the rugged West. How about you, Di? Are you joining this cruise?"

Under the railery, Lucky caught again that flicker of meaning, but Di was apparently unaware of it. She smiled at May. "Sorry, I can't go," she took up the banter. "Nothing under two hundred feet for me. I'm not built to take it." Her eyes dropped ever so slightly to May's too-solid waist line. May's mouth tightened at the corners. But Di hadn't meant that, Lucky was sure.

Uncle Frank had to join in. "Is this a private cruise or can anybody come? I'm expecting to be in Miami in June." He turned to Thad. "We've got that utility case coming up, remember?"

Thad nodded. "You'll go off on the cruise and leave me the case." He accused, his voice affectionate. "Frank! You'll do nothing of the sort!" Aunt Diane never caught on. "You can't even swim!"

Uncle Frank chuckled. Already, Lucky liked her uncle. Aunt Diane? She didn't know. She glanced at Di. Such loveliness—you couldn't help adoring it, even while you envied it.

At dinner everything these people said, even with Thad and May's seemingly careless efforts to include her, excluded her. Horse races—she'd never been to one. Polo—a word in the papers. Winter sports—she'd never seen snow. Swing music—she didn't understand actually the words they used. Dancing—she couldn't even waltz!

She began to realize, with growing heartbeat, how much a stranger she was among them. A child of nature; an oddity! She belonged in the Islands. She shouldn't have come.

Uncle Frank was talking to her: "—dance Saturday night. In your honor. . ."

"Oh, no! Shock was on her face. But Uncle Frank was beaming around the table. "A dance in Lucky's honor, with all the trimmings!"

He looked at her with such pleasure, she couldn't bring herself to protest. But inside she felt dizzy with apprehension.

I'll be so awkward and hopeless. They'll laugh at me, these people. . . so sure of themselves. And I can't dance. He won't do it when he knows that. I'll tell him later. But if he still wants to—

Her mouth had a dry, acid taste, but she knew, if she had to, she could live through this as she did the time she broke her arm and it took a day to get to the doctor. Di's voice was going on with plans for the dance. "—have Ken King's Kingaroos. Don't you think we like them the best of any band in town?" She appealed to Thad.

In spite of her sick dread, Lucky's ear picked up that "we." It stood out. Cappy'd always said she was "part Injun" the way she caught people's moods and meanings so quickly.

Thad said, "Yes. Remember how hot they were out at the Daltons' rumpus? Gave! Didn't they?"

Lucky's tortured eyes went to Di's face. She was laughing up at Thad, her head thrown back, her white throat rippling softly with her laughter. Were they in love? Di was so beautiful. And Thad? He was kind. Lucky'd seen that. And handsome. And—something more. She stole another glance at him. Magnetic? Wasn't that the word in books? A sigh, hardly more than a deeper breath, expanded in her.

After that she was more aware of those two. Through the long miserable evening while she watched the other four play bridge, she saw how often Di's eyes sought

BAKSI BEATS AGED SAVOLD

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—Without causing Champion Joe Louis any particular "GI" unrest, youthful Joe Baksi last night methodically pummeled Lee Savold off the wartime heavyweight top row in a 10-round scrap witnessed by a disappointingly small crowd of 16,135 at Wrigley field.

Covered with Savold's blood, the 22-year-old ex-coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., bull-shouldered his way to a second decision over the battling merchant mariner in three meetings this year.

Baksi, outweighing his foe 213½ to 199 pounds, lured Savold into constant in-fighting which touched off frequent boos, but won the ranking civilian heavyweight the nod of Referee Walter Brightmore and one of the two judges. The other judge voted for a draw.

The 27-year-old Savold, bleeding profusely from the nose and a cut over the left eye after a third round cuffing by Baksi, perked in the fifth to rock the rugged Pole with several stiff lefts to the jaw. But Baksi recovered quickly and the rest of the battle was marred by clinching which went entirely against the out-weighted Savold.

Five rounds went to Baksi, two were even and three were taken by Savold.

PICKS CHICAGO CUBS TO SNARE SECOND PLACE

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
 Evansville Bob Coleman, manager of the Boston Braves today picked the Chicago Cubs to win the second-place scrap in the National league and labeled the Bruins' Bill Nicholson the most valuable player in the circuit.

As the National's eastern teams headed west for their last long jaunt of the season and the St. Louis Browns led the American's western clubs on a final eastern invasion, Coleman left little doubt about his concession of the flag to the St. Louis Cardinals whom he called the "only real ball club" in the majors.

With the exception of the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates who are playing off a postponed game in Pittsburgh, all big league clubs enjoyed a second successive open date.

Cards Far Ahead

With the Cards enjoying a 16½-game lead and only 55 to go, National league managers couldn't be blamed for following Coleman's train of thought and talking about the second place scrap.

The portly catcher from back home in Indiana who is completing his first season as a big league manager doesn't hit Chicago for another week, but thoughts of Nicholson trouble his sleep.

"When the Cubs were stumbling around the basement, Nicholson was hitting around .230," the Boston skipper pointed out, "he didn't hit a homer until mid-way, like last year, but once he started those Cubs have been plenty rough."

"Marty Marion of the Cards is a close second to Nicholson as most valuable but I think Nick does more for the Cubs than Marion can do for St. Louis. That Marion, though, is an octopus at shortstop. With help like that no wonder Billy Southworth's pitching looks good. Johnny Hopp is having a great year and Ray Sanders . . . and Kurowski . . . and—Let's talk about something else."

Can't Get Players

Coleman wasn't satisfied with his second division club but pointed out there wasn't much to be done about it under wartime conditions.

"The boss (President Bob Quinn) has been out scouting and he can spend the owners' money. It's hard for him to get used to owners with lots of cash, asking to spend it, but now you can't get the players."

Asked if he had noticed any great difference between minor league and big league managing, Coleman shook his head.

"It's hard to draw any line this year when so many players are in the big league who will never be big leaguers and so many more have other things on their minds. If I had to give one big difference, I'd say those little mistakes, one bad pitch or one error, can beat you a lot faster up here. But it's all baseball, big league or Class D."

Refuses $100,000
For Unbeaten Colt

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Walter M. Jeffords, of Philadelphia, has refused an offer of $100,000 for his unbeaten two-year-old colt, Pavot, winner of $52,475 in capturing the first four starts of his career.

The offer was made by Sol Rutchick, trainer of the Havahome Stables, after he watched Pavot win the U. S. Hotel States at Belmont Saturday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Giants drew 15,299 fans (13,847 paid) for their Sunday double-header with the Phillies. Esquire's all American boys game yesterday attracted 17,803 and a lot of people who paid for tickets didn't go . . . With due allowances for the effects of promotion, that indicates a healthy interest in the old-fashioned American game of baseball-for-fun . . . It was a good show and this department hereby votes against the suggestion that future games be staged as preliminaries to the major league all star fiestas. The kids showed they could stand on their own feet.

POLO GROUNDS PATTERN

Wonder how many years it has been since Connie Mack and Mel Ott, who managed the two kid squads, have seen anything like the mob scene the youngsters in the stands put on after the game . . . some players weren't allowed to head for the showers for fully 20 minutes . . . Standouts we noticed were the starting pitchers, Bill Pierce of Detroit and Virgil Jester of Denver; Leo Reming, Boston shortstop, who pulled off a couple of very fancy fielding plays and Herb Pollock of Columbus, O., in center field and Chuck Perchak of Chicago and Vic Pacetti of San Francisco at bat . . . where the 14 to 17-year-olds showed their age was in occasionally letting the ball roll around the plate, recovering slowly after errors and crossing up their signals in the field. But even big leaguers do that some times.

SHORT SHORT STORY

In one respect, Messrs. Mack and Ott did a perfect job of managing; they got all 28 players into the game . . . But when one pinch hitter took three strikes, a scribe from his home town moaned: "That's my story for today."

SCRAP COLLECTION

Overlooked fact about the major league all-star game last month was that Rip Sewell was only the second pitcher in the 12-year history of the game to work a three-inning stint without giving a hit. The first was Otis Dean in 1936 . . . What's this story that actor Don Ameche, who is miffed because the National football league tabled his franchise application, has been joining with Christy Walsh, John Keeshin of Chicago, Tony Morabito of San Francisco and Buffalo's Sam Cordovano in secret meetings concerning a new league? . . . Manuel Ortiz the bantamweight champ, could collect $15,000 for defending

Local Nine Splits Games At Woodboro

The Gettysburg Giants divided a pair of baseball games with the Woodboro Yankees on the Maryland diamond Sunday afternoon, winning the second game 5-3 in eleven innings after dropping the opening tilt 6-2. The Yankees have won 20 of 25 games to date this season.

Roy Moser's double scoring Grove and Rhodes gave the local nine its victory in the second tilt of the afternoon. Ecker, former Littlestown hurler, twirled Woodboro to its victory.

Those making up the Giants' squad included Ogden, Stonesifer, Bobby Knox, Bud Knox, Neiderer, Kennel, Decker, Roy Moser, Rhodes, Grove, Pittentur, McCauslin and Bill Jones.

PURELY PERSONAL POSTSCRIPT

Are you doing enough Home Canning?

it takes a lot of food

to feed a family!

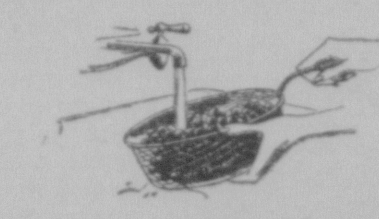

Next winter many foods may be scarce, because seventy per cent of the fruit pack and half the vegetable pack will be reserved for our armed forces and allies. That's why it's important for you to do as much home canning as possible. Can more in '44—and you'll find it easy—and economical in both ration points and money—to have delicious, well balanced and nutritious meals for all the family next winter.

Home canning is easy especially with your Gas range (and a sure way to save on your food budget. For prompt, authentic information on any phase of canning, call on the Home Service Department of your Gas company.

5 "MUSTS" IN HOME CANNING

1. Select sound fruit and vegetables as fresh from garden as possible, and grade according to size and quality.

2. Clean all vegetables or fruits thoroughly before you start to can. Use only those that are firm and ripe.

3. Can them speedily—not more than two hours from garden to canning.

4. Once you've started, don't let interruptions delay you. Food spoils quickly in warm weather.

5. Follow canning directions closely as to length of time and method. This is most important for best results.
